TAFT DEFENDS USE OF VETO

President Speaks at the Ohio State Fair.

MERE CHANGE IS NOT GENUINE PROGRESS

Is Gist of His Attack on the Third Party.

Nation's Chief Says Most Vetoes in History Are Used for Good of the People—Speaks of Growth of Columbus and Ohio and of Government's Work in Scientific Agriculture.

Columbus, O., Aug 29.—President Taft's first speech after arriving in Columbus, this morning, to attend the Ohio state fair and the Ohio-Columbus centennial, was made at the state fairgrounds this morning The president was received cordially and was heard by an immense crowd

In his address at the fairgrounds, President Taft defended his use of the veto, and attacked most of the so-called Progressive measures as "nostrums" He did not mention the measures specifically, although he declared that the trouble with the men who advocated them was that "they wanted to place reforms into effect by tomorrow morning's breakfast."

"That is not the way nations grow,' declared the president. "They grow by years and decades, and mere change is not necessarily progress If we desire to make certain progress, we must move step by step and with the utmost care'

Referring to his recent vetoes, he said he only did what his conscience forced him to do.

Time To Use Veto.

"When you take a Democratic house, a senate that is not anything and a Republican president," said Taft, "the veto is likely to be used

I used it only moderately. If you will review the history of vetoes in this country, you will find out that most of them have been for the good of the people."

He then recalled the instance of President Grant vetoing the bill providing for the issuance of greenbacks, and said that "our sound finances today were traced directly from that veto"

Most of the president's speech was devoted to a historical review of the growth of Columbus and Ohio. He also referred to the government's activity in advancing scientific agriculture He was introduced by Dr. Thompson, president of the Centennial commission The audience of 10,000 people received the address cordially, but no enthusiasm was manifested

DISAPPOINTED GIRL ATTACKS HER LOVER

The girl taught him to read and write and then she taught him more advanced studies. Finally, a year ago, he came to Chicago and secured a place as teacher in the Hebrew institute Then he entered the University of Chicago Medical college. The girl came to Chicago also, and secured a position She said Milzenmacher's attitude toward her changed Then she learned of the other girl and in a rage threw acid. The man was not seriously injured.

CARDINAL TO RUN BOAT.

Cardinal Merry del Val.

Rome, Aug. 29.—It is reported here that Cardinal Merry del Val will himself run the motor boat given him by Cardinal O'Connell of Boston. Merry del Val has shocked conservatives, but is every way modern. He introduced typewriters, telephones and the elevator to the Vatican. But the supreme shock to conservative clericals is his proposal to run his own motor boat.

WILSON OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Addresses Grange Meeting in Pennsylvania.

ASKS SUPPORT FOR HIS TARIFF PLANK

Promises Economic Reforms To Benefit All.

Democratic Nominee, in His First Campaign Speech, Likens Government to a Vast Partnership in Which Some of the Partners Have Been Crowded Out, but Promises Conditions Will Be Righted.

Wiliams Grove, Pa., Aug. 29.—Governor Wilson fired his opening gun here today in his campaign for the presidency. Addressing the farmers gathered here for the meeting of the Pennslyvania state grange, the Democratic nominee appealed for support upon the tariff plank in his platform He promised economic reforms, not only beneficial to the farmer but to all

Governor Wilson likened our government to a vast partnership, with every citizen holding a share in it. He declared that a great economic change is going on, and cited the passage of the farmers' free list by the last congress as an expression of it.

Wilson's Speech.

Governor Wilson said in part: "It is strange we should have put off so long looking into our government, to see whether it is, in fact, run according to the rules we originally laid down for it, but it is certain that we are now looking into it very sharply indeed, and without the least danger that we shall be deceived again as to its character.

"Our idea of it has been, from the first, that it was a genuine partnership, and that all of us were partners and that there was no ranking of junior and senior partners, that nobody had any preference over anybody else in the arrangement, but that all were upon one footing and were to share alike But a very interesting thing has come to light. That is not, in fact, the way the government has been administered in our home, but something very different It has been in the hands of self constituted trustees, and the wards have seldom been allowed a real governing voice in its administration.

"We have supposed that we were conducting the national business along lines laid down by Jefferson, but we find, as a matter of fact, we have been conducting it along the lines laid down by Hamilton.

Hamilton's Belief.

Hamilton believed that the common run of men had little qualification for such business, that it could be really comprehended and wisely directed only by those who led in commercial and industrial affairs, and owned the chief bodies of property in the country And, in our time, the leaders of the Republican party have consciously or unconsciously adopted this notion.

"At any rate, whether they have adopted the notion or not, they have

PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

An Insane Woman Attempts To Reach Him.

DETECTIVES NAB HER IN COLUMBUS HOTEL

Says She Has "Sacred Knife" for Taft.

Claiming To Be the President's Wife, Carolyn Beers, of Greenville, Makes Effort To Enter Elevator To See If He Is True to Her. Knives Are Found in the Bosom of Her Dress.

Columbus, Aug. 29.—A woman about forty-five years old, and believed to be insane, was arrested this morning at the Southern hotel, as she tried to enter an elevator in which President Taft was ascending to go to breakfast. She gave the name of Carolyn Beers, of Greenville, Ohio, and told the police she wanted to give the president a "sacred knife."

The woman had been seen about the Southern hotel today, and when she attempted to enter the elevator, was seized by Detectives E. C. Johnson, of Pittsburgh, and Ollie Hamer, of Columbus.

"I am the president's wife," she told the detectives, "and I am following him to see that he is true to me. I have a sacred knife which I am going to give him."

The woman was rushed to the city prison by the detectives, in an automobile, and when searched by the matron, two ordinary pocket knives were found in the bosom of her dress.

She continued to ramble and said that she had seen Taft at the Gibson house in Cincinnati last fall, and that he had then told her to go home and stay with her daughter. She persisted in her declaration that she was the president's wife, and to quiet her the chief told her he would have the president visit her at the prison.

Addresses were made by Governor John A. Dix, General Mills, Lynne Sullivan and New York State Senator John F. Murtaugh. In his speech Governor Dix recalled the record of the famous old Indian fighter, and commented upon the erection and fall of the first monument dedicated to his memory. This monument was erected on the Newtown battle field in 1779, and was dedicated before a crowd of 50,000 people.

The throng that witnessed the present unveiling exceeded this number by at least 10,000, according to the estimates of those in charge of the ceremonies.

ALL AMERICANS WILL BE KILLED

Who Are Found in Mexican Territory

AFTER SEPTEMBER THE FIFTEENTH

Is Menacing Statement by the Rebel Leader.

Former Texas Ranger Arrives at El Paso with Startling News That General Is Prepared To Carry Out Threat—Message to Steever from War Department May Be Caused by Same Threat.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 29.—After September 15 all Americans in Mexico will be put to death, according to a threat made by General Emilio Campa, who has an army of 400 insurgents in the Sonora district.

News of this menacing statement was brought here today by Thomas Holland, a former Texas ranger, who recently has been foreman of the San Geronimo mines in Mexico.

It is believed that Campa's threat was responsible for the message to General Steever from the war department, asking if more troops were needed on the border.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Felix Oury, of Cincinnati, a traveling salesman, killed himself in a Halstead street hotel today. He attached a tube to a gas jet, and placed the other end in his mouth. A note to his wife, said he had only $2 left, and could not live without money.

HUSBAND WINS BACK COUNTESS.

FORMER CROWN PRINCESS LOUISE, OF SAXONY.

In spite of their many domestic difficulties, the former crown princess, Louise of Saxony, whose escapades have been the talk of the royal courts for many years, is again living with her last husband, Enrico Toselli, the pianist, from whom she was legally separated. The two have taken a house on the Riviera, and are collaborating on a musical farce. The ex-crown prince, now known as the Countess Montignosa, first startled Eurpe, in 1902, by disappearing from the court of Dresden and taking her three youngest children with her. After vainly striving to have his wife return to him, the crown prince, Frederick, sued for divorce and obtained the custody of the children. Soon after, the king died and Frederick succeeded to the throne of Saxony. Later, the princess asked her husband for permission to see her children. He refused. But she went to Dresden in spite of his reply, and was repulsed at the palace gates by a military guard. Her sympathizers created such a demonstration that the police drove her from the city.

BULL MOOSERS WEAK AT POLLS

Cast Only About 2,000 Votes in Michigan.

AMOS MUSSELMAN IS REPUBLICAN NOMINEE

For Governor of the Wolverine State.

Detroit Contributes Nearly Half of All Progressive Votes Cast in the Michigan Primaries—Democrats of Ingham County May Make Test of the Primary Law Because Vote Is Under Per Cent. Required.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29.—Amos Musselman, of Grand Rapids, has received the Republican nomination for governor, according to returns today from the statewide primary of Tuesday. The race was close, but today's figures show Musselman leading Frederick C. Martindale by a trifle over 3,000 votes, out of a total of about 70,000 cast.

The Progressive vote throughout the state was very light. Figures so far received, show that only a little over 2,000 were cast in the entire state. Of these, about 700 were polled in Detroit.

There were no contests between Progressive candidates and this, according to the state leaders of the new party, is the reason for the light vote.

A test of the primary law may be made by the Democrats of Ingham county. The law requires that a vote equal to fifteen per cent. of the vote cast for the secretary of state at the preceding election be polled at the primaries in order to make the nomination effective. In many instances the vote, owing to lack of contests, was under the required fifteen per cent.

COLONEL STARTS OFF WITH WHIRL

Begins Campaign in Green Mountain State

BY THROWING MUD AT OPPOSING PARTIES

Bull Moosers Have Hopes of Carrying Vermont.

Roosevelt Begins Three-Day Stumping Tour—His Workers Say That Progressive Sentiment Is Strong in the State—Big Chief, Himself, Feels Satisfied—Will Appeal to Farmers and Wage Earners.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 29.—Colonel Roosevelt started his three-days' campaign in Vermont today with a bristling speech at the ball grounds here, in which he attacked the Democratic and Republican parties for their boss rule.

The crowd gave the ex-president a rousing greeting Roosevelt was informed by his workers here that a decided Progressive sentiment exists in the state James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior under Roosevelt, who has been stumping the state, met the colonel on his arrival with encouraging words.

"We have had crowded meetings everywhere and intense enthusiasm," he said The Bull Moose leader said he expected Dr. Frazer Metzger, Progressive candidate for governor, to poll 20,000 votes at the election next Tuesday

Roosevelt reached North Bennington at 8:50 this morning and drove here by automobile At stations along the way crowds yelled for him but it was too early for the colonel to be up. "Hoorah for the Big Bull Moose," was the cry that filled the air.

"The Republican party as well as the Democratic party has outlived its usefulness. The Republican machine left the Republican party at Chicago last June. You are not obliged to travel off in the company of Penrose Barnes and Guggenheim in that other machine line up," said Roosevelt.

"The machine leaders care more for beating me than they do about electing Mr. Taft They have abandoned hope of putting Mr. Taft through They know they can't do it. They don't care a rap for Mr Taft, but they are with him to beat me. The reactionaries of both parties are banded together to beat our new party of progress."

The colonel adverted to Jim Watson, the Taft Indiana supporter, having stated that he was coming to Vermont to campaign for the Taft ticket

"Before he headed this way he changed his mind," said the colonel He went South instead, and there, feeling that he was far enough away from home, he opened his heart. He told the southern people that Mr. Taft's nomination was obtained through the steam roller. Now that's right."

The ex-president then jumped into the Penrose-Archbold Standard Oil

GREAT WARRIOR LAID TO REST

Touching Scenes Mark the Funeral

OF GENERAL BOOTH IN LONDON TODAY

Evangelist Is Buried Beside His Wife.

Unmistakable Sincerity Is Evident in the Tribute Paid to the Great Christian Leader — Funeral Is Touching in Its Simple Dignity—Thousands Stand Uncovered as Procession Moves Through Streets.

London, Aug. 29.—Amidst scenes of heart-touching grief, the late General William Booth, patriarch and founder of the Salvation Army, was laid to rest today beside the body of his wife in Abney Park cemetery.

Burial of a dearly beloved potentate could hardly have caused a parallel for the pathetic exhibitions of general grief, as the catalfaque moved through the streets of London. As the procession moved by, business was suspended.

The great city of London paid its tribute to the memory of the great international evangelist with unmistakable sincerity. Mourners from over seas stood with tearful eyes, as the funeral ranks swept by.

The simple dignity of the funeral was touching. A military aspect was given by the uniforms of the Salvationists, but there was nothing of the harshness of war in their demeanor. Between 5,000 and 6,000 members of the Salvation Army, representing all parts of the world, were in line.

The procession moved away from the Thames embankment at 11:30 o'clock. Forty brass bands played sacred music, as the procession moved. Blood and fire banners, the emblem of the Salvation Army, waved above the marchers.

Thousands Pay Respect.

When the procession arrived at Congress hall in Clapton, a halt was made while the coffin, containing the body of the founder, was removed from the bier, where it had been resting in state for a week, and was placed upon the funeral car. Thousands stood uncovered as the plain oak coffin, bearing the colors of the Salvation Army, was caried from the hall.

Immense crowds lined the streets through which the line moved to Abney Park. Flags fluttered at half mast above the buildings.

Although the early morning weather was threatening, hints of rain did not in any way interfere. As the procession passed Mansion house, a striking incident occurred. Sir John Knill, who is acting lord mayor of London in absence of Dr. Crosby, stepped upon the balcony, and stood with his hand raised in salute, while the hearse passed by. Sir John was dressed in the robes of his office, and his act represented the official tribute of the city to the memory of its distinguished citizen.

At times a light rain fell, but the mourners in the street minded not the downfall, as they stood hatless.

Tourists Interested.

Extraordinary interest was taken in General Booth's funeral by the many tourists from the United States and other countries, who are now in London

As the cortege passed through the districts inhabited by the poor, every window and nearly every roof top was crowded. Not a few of the slum dwellers, who saw the coffin, had been helped by the Salvation Army.

Ten thousand tickets of admission to Abney Park cemetery had been issued, but hundreds of others asked for passes into the burial ground.

The scenes at the grave yard, attending the interment, were solemnly impressive. Before the final services at the cemetery were begun, the coffin was placed upon the platform. After a hymn, Colonel Damon, representing the United States, and other leaders spoke eulogizing the life and work of the dead evangelist. While the bands played "Servant of God," one of General Booth's favorite hymns, the coffin was lowered into the grave.

La Follette Forces Senate To Yield to Wishes.

INVESTIGATION OF SOURCES OF FUNDS

May Cause a Stir in All the Political Parties.

Senate Committee Is Given Power To Fully Inquire Into All Contributions to Recent Campaign Funds—Wisconsin Senator Determined To Know Where Roosevelt Got Money in 1904 and in Recent Primaries.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Without a dissenting vote, the senate passed the Penrose-Reed resolution authorizing an official inquiry into contributions to the recent primary campaign funds and into charges that have been made in regard to the 1904 alleged Standard Oil payment.

This inquiry will not only lay bare the facts in regard to Colonel Roosevelt's campaign funds, but it will open up the possibility of disclosing any of the financial transactions that have taken place between John D. Archbold or George W. Perkins and any member of congress.

The resolution as finally adopted specifically gives the investigating committee the power to inquire into all such financial transactions and to call for the correspondence relating to them.

This action of the senate, it is acknowledged, opens up a field which may result in startling disclosures not only on the Republican but on the Democratic side of congress. It is the most radical and far-reaching inquiry that has been authorized by the senate.

Victory Is LaFollette's.

Colonel Roosevelt can put the entire blame for this inquiry into his primary campaign upon the shoulders of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin. Senator LaFollette, who counts himself a real progressive, believes thoroughly in the publicity of campaign contributions. He has made public the contributions of his primary campaign, and has been calling almost weekly upon Colonel Roosevelt to follow his example and let his actions square with the pledges in the Bull Moose platform. Having obtained no favorable response, Senator LaFollette eagerly seized on the Penrose resolution and threw his personal efforts toward forcing it through the senate. But for the senator from Wisconsin the resolution would never have seen the light. He took the senate by the throat and by threatening to hold them in session indefinitely compelled the adoption of the resolution.

The inquiry will include, of course, the Taft primary campaign and the campaign made by the Democratic candidates for the presidential nomination. It will disclose the sources of President Taft's recent primary campaign fund and will show where the money came from that financed the Clark and Underwood booms. It may also settle the charges made by "Mars" Henry Watterson on the sources from which Governor Woodrow Wilson drew his financial assistance. Champ Clark's friends in the senate have given evidence of strong opposition to the resolution, and this has led to comments that the speaker may not care to give to the world the details of the financing of his lamented boom.

Strong efforts were made in the senate to call off LaFollette, but he stood grimly by his guns and refused to yield an inch.

MANN HOLDS A POST MORTEM

Over the Session of Congress Just Closed.

MINORITY LEADER OF HOUSE IS DISGUSTED

The Democrats Lay Claims to False Glory.

Representative Says Present Session Lasts Longer and Does Less Than Any Regular Session Recently. Bills Passed by Democrats Really Amendments of Laws Enacted by Republicans in Previous Sessions.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Representative Mann, minority leader of the house, today held a post mortem over the session of congress just closed.

He concluded that there were several things wrong with the activities of the legislative bodies, and declared that his diagonsis made last December that this session would last longer and do less than any other regular session of recent years, had been proved correct.

The 400 laws, which congress passed this session, he asserts, are in the main of little importance, the Panama canal bill, which was the principal measure passed, being a bill chiefly prepared in a prior congress.

Mr. Mann characterized the reformation of the rules as a farce, and further charged that the house has been inefficient in allowing more than 200 senate bills to remain without action. Among these bills he cites the immigration bill, the bill providing compensation for personal injuries to employes of interstate carriers and others.

No Glory for Democrats.

"It is a constant boast," he says, "that the Democrats at this session passed a law providing for publicity of campaign contributions, but in reality they only amended the law already passed by a Republican house.

"Their eight hour law too, is in the nature of an amendment to a previous law."

Representative Mann takes from the Democratic house the credit of passing the steamship laws, the bill to establish a children's bureau and the white phosphorus match laws all of which he declares emanated from the department of commerce and labor and were administration measures.

"Practically all the laws of any importance passed at this session," he continued, "were either bills prepared in a previous congress, or else prepared by officials of President Taft's administration.

"The boast of the Democrats that they would be economical has fallen by the wayside. Outside of money expended for the Panama canal, which can not be considered an ordinary expense, the appropriations for this session of congress exceed those of the last Republican session, and in many places the Democrats have appropriated money where it was pure extravagance and they, on the other hand, have refused appropriations where they were essential.

"All in all, Mr. Clark has made a very good speaker, but the Democratic management has been inefficient, inactive, unprogressive and disorganized. The main work in the house on the Democratic side has been a constant boasting of what they were going to do in the next election."

The house in Dresden, New York, where Robert G. Ingersoll was born, is to be preserved as a memorial to him, and was to have been dedicated as such next Sunday. It has been decided, however, to postpone the ceremony a year on account of this being a presidential year, when the statesmen will be busy.

BIG TIM FOR CONGRESS.

Timothy D. Sullivan.

New York, Aug. 27.—"Big Tim" Sullivan, the famous Tammany leader, who probably holds a stronger control over the voters of his district than any political leader in the country, is going to move from the New York state legislature to congress. That is, providing his health holds out and the Twelfth congress district does not experience the greatest political upheaval in its history. State Senator Sullivan has been named as the choice of the Democratic organization for congress, something which is virtually equivalent to an election in the Twelfth.

The rig, which belonged to a Hepburn party, was hitched nearby and the driverless automobile ran into it. The machine was stopped before it could do any more damage. One wheel and the shafts of the buggy were broken and Mr. Mapes had it repaired immediately.

ORDERS TROOPS TO NICARAGUA

President Taft Sends Regiment of Infantry

TO AID AMERICANS WHO ARE IN DANGER.

Uncle Sam Determined To Stop Rebellion.

United States Soldiers Are Ordered into Foreign Country for First Time Since Boxer Uprising—Force of 2,000 Men Will Handle Central Americans—Managua in Danger of Falling into Hands of Rebels.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Acting on the urgent request of the state department, President Taft today ordered the Tenth United States infantry, under command of Colonel Henry Green, to Nicaragua from Panama City.

The regiment, with its full fighting strength of 1,200 men and equipped for a long and strenuous field campaign, will leave Panama tonight on a Pacific Mail steamer, arriving at Corinto Sunday.

This is the first time, since the Boxer uprising in China, that the United States has sent troops into a foreign country.

The United States is determined to use every effort to put down the Mena rebellion, which the state department today characterized as "barbarous, uncivilized and totally unworthy of any respect."

The arrival of the Tenth infantry in Nicaragua will give the United States a fighting force there of nearly 2,000 men, as the cruisers, Denver and California, are almost certain to have arrived before the soldiers.

Troops Are Needed.

Dispatches to the state department today indicate that every one of the troops is urgently needed in the Latin-American republic, to preserve order, because the rebels are rapidly gaining strength, and matters are approaching a crisis.

Generals Mena and Zeladon have surrounded Managua, and the capital is in imminent danger of falling into their hands. The 450 marines and sailors there, although well armed, are poorly provisioned, and it is feared the rebels might starve them into submission before the 750 marines, now enroute from Philadelphia, could come to their assistance.

The Tenth infantry should reach Managua by Sunday, and attacking the rebel forces from the rear, force them to break and flee. Orders have been given to show no mercy to any rebel forces, which give battle to the American troops, and President Diaz has been assured of the active support of the United States.

Movement Not Unexpected.

The Tenth infantry was stationed at Panama. The movement of the Tenth infantry was not unexpected, because the state department has been arriving gradually at a realization of the inability to mobolize a sufficient number of ships and men to protect American interests.

The Pacific fleet was found to be inadequate because a majority of the war vessels are in reserve, there not being enough men in the navy to man them. The Denver, California and Colorado, now enroute to Corinto, are the only ships on the Pacific coast available for this work, and it was believed these would not be sufficient. Therefore the army was called on as a last resort.

The officers of the Tenth infantry are Colonel Henry Green, Lieutenant Colonel William Blauvelt, Major Charles Gerhard, Major Samuel Seay and Major Laroy Upton, Captain Marcus B. Stokes, Captain Frank Chochan, Captain Regram Whitworth, Captain Henry Eames, Captain James Gowd, Captain Ralph E. Ingram, Captain John B. Schoffel, Captain Ethelbert Breckenbridge, Captain Lawrence D. Cabell, Captain Oliver Eskridge, Captain James J. Mayes, Captain Samuel W. Widdifield, Captain William Taylor, Captain Robert C. Humber, Captain Thomas J. Rogers

In addition there are thirty-two first and second lieutenants.

Canal Zone Unprotected.

The embarkation of the Tenth infantry will leave the canal zone entirely unprotected, either by marines or soldiers, but Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, said today that he would probably order another regiment from the Pacific coast to Panama to replace the Tenth.

The total American force in Nicaragua by the middle of next week will number 3,400. There are 350 marines and sailors already at Managua, the Tenth will add 1,200 more, the Denver and California about 1,000 and 750 marines are enroute from Philadelphia.

After receiving word from Colonel Green, commanding the Tenth infantry, that the Pacific mail steamer, leaving Panama City tonight, is not large enough to carry the entire regiment, Major General Wood conferred with Acting Secretary of the Navy Winning, and it was planned to send half of the Tenth infantry to Corinto on the cruiser California. Owing to the fact that the California's quarters are limited the infantry will have to camp on deck for the two days' trip.

Mr. Winpenny was one of the passengers transferred to the Pretoria after the Empress of Britain contrived to return to port. He has just returned from abroad.

"We struck the Helvatia about amidships," said Mr. Winpenny, "and ploughed nearly three-quarters through her. One of the photographs shows this situation as well as a picture from the deck of the steamship could. We kept the Helvetia above water for half an hour by steaming ahead for all we were worth. As soon as we had cleared her she began to turn over sideways, as shown in the photograph.

BULL MOOSERS ARE TOLD TO GET OUT

Kansas Republicans Win in State Party Councils.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 28.—Taft followers won in the Republican state party councils here when a resolution was adopted by a vote of 40 to 37 in the state committee asking the Roosevelt electors to resign from the Republican ticket and move into the independent column for the general election. William Allen White, national committeeman for the Progressive party in Kansas, announced this action meant practically a third party state ticket for Kansas.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—David W. Mr. Mulvane also announced that United States Senator William H. Borah of Idaho, a Progressive, would take the stump for President Taft.

A Recipe for Grape Jam.

The grapes should not be dead ripe. Wash them and pick them from the stems. Put into a kettle and add about one-third as much water as you have fruit and boil until the grapes burst open. Drain the fruit and allow to cool, when the seeds should be removed. When seeded, add sugar, allowing a pound to a pound of fruit. A cup or two of the juice from the boiled grapes may be added to keep the jam from burning. Cok slowly for three hours or until clear and thick. Just before taking from the fire add a cup of chopped English walnut meats. A sliced lemon and a little spice may be added if this is liked. The remaining juice may be bottled to be used as grape juice if desired. Put the jam into jars and seal.

MULATTOS IN UNITED STATES ENUMERATED

In a Report Issued by Bureau of the Census.

RESULTS BELIEVED TO BE APPROXIMATE

One-Fifth the Negroes Have White Blood in Them in 1910, While Only One-Eighth Are Mixed in 1870—Greater Intermixture Not Necessarily Implied.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—A preliminary statement, showing by states and geographic divisions, the number and proportion of mulattos among the negroes enumerated at the Thirteenth decennial census of the United States, taken as of April 15, 1910, was issued today by Director Durand of the bureau of the census, department of Commerce and Labor. The statistics were prepared under the direction of William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population in the bureau of the census, and are subject to revision. The statement gives comparative figures for 1870 and 1890, no data being available for 1880 or 1900.

The term "mulatto," as used in the census of 1910, includes all persons, not full-blooded negroes, who have some proportion or perceptible trace of negro blood. The bureau of the census does not regard the return as being beyond question, since the classification of negroes as full-bloods or mulattoes was necessarily, to a considerable degree, dependent upon the personal opinion and conscientiousness of the enumerators. The results, however, are believed to approxinate the facts for the country as a whole and for large aggregates.

Statistical Table

In 1910 there were in continental United States as a whole, 9,827,763 negroes, of whom 2,050,686, or 20.9 per cent, were reported as mulattos. In 1890 there were 1,132,060 mulattos reported, or 15.2 per cent of all the negroes, and in 1870 a total of 584,049, or 12 per cent. Thus, the figures taken at their face values show that about one-fifth of all the negroes in 1910 had some admixture of white blood, as against about one-eighth in 1870.

It may be noted, however, that an increase in the mulatto element does not necessarily imply increasing intermixture with the whites since the children born of marriages between blacks and mulattos would be mulattos according to the census definition.

The percentage of mulattos reported varies widely in different states and different sections of the country. In New England and in the East, North-Central and Pacific divisions, about one-third of the negro population were reported as mulattos, while in each of the three southern divisions the proportion is only about one-fifth. In the Middle Atlantic division, for some reason the percentage is not higher than it is in the southern divisions. This may possibly be due to the rapid growth of negro population in that division through immigration from the South

EXCHANGES WILEY FOR GOV. HADLEY

Chautauqua Board Makes Shift in Its Program.

The Marion County Chautauqua board had opportunity Tuesday to make a trade in its program for the first Sunday of its 1913 assembly, and cancelled the engagement of Dr. Wiley, the former pure food chemist, and substituted Governor Herbert Hadley of Missouri. It is believed that Governor Hadley will deliver a more appropriate Sunday address, and the board was further moved to make the change because it was learned that Dr. Wiley sometimes failed to keep his engagements and there was a desire to avoid another disappointment like that of Senator Gore.

Police started in pursuit and Jeffrey put on all speed to avoid arrest, but returned later at full speed and ran into the wreckage of the truck wagon. The boy awakened when the auto struck High street and ran several squares back to the scene of the wreck, where an excited crowd was digging into the wreckage for his dead body, it being supposed that the lad had been killed in the collision.

UNBEATEN PACER DIRECTUM I.

DIRECTUM I.

The success of a high class young harness horse in the hands of a competent and trustworthy trainer this season may bring James Butler back to the trotting turf on a scale that will benefit the sport. When the machinery of the National Trotting Association was used a few years ago in an unworthy attempt to take away from Mr. Butler on a technicality about $80,000 in purses and stakes fairly won, he closed his training stable, sold out his big breeding stud, withdrew from all connection with harness racing and went over to the runners.

On dispersing his breeding stock he had two or three colts left over, one of which was a chestnut pacer by his old favorite, Directum Kelly, 2:03¼, a trotting stallion that went through the Grand Circuit of 1898 without losing a race. Directa, 2:18½, the dam of the colt, was one of the unbeaten trotters of 1904 in the Great Western Circuit, where the daughter of Pactolus, 2:12¾, won seven straight races in six weeks.

This colt is now five years old and is known as Directum I. He has never been beaten.

TAKES ISSUE WITH TEDDY

Frank B. Kellogg, Government Trust-Buster,

UPHOLDS SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW

In Speech Before the Bar Association.

Attorney Declares the Standard Oil and Tobacco Decisions Establish the Power of the Federal Government Over Combinations and Corporations Organized by State Authority—Speech Is Feature.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 28.—In direct contradiction to the often repeated statement of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt that the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust decisions were of no intrinsic value, Frank B. Kellogg, the government trust buster, who conducted the prosecution of these trusts, today upheld the supreme court's adjudication in his speech here, before the American Bar association.

Kellogg has joined the ranks of the progressive party and his praise of the Sherman Anti-trust act and its practical effect in controlling big business, proved easily the feature of the second days' session of the association.

In answering the hypothetical question: "What has been accomplished by the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust decision?" Mr. Kellogg said, that primarily they had established the power of the federal government over combinations and corporations organized by state authority—a power that, until these decisions were made, was denied.

He said that, to the smaller corporations and individuals engaged in business, the decision brought protection from the control and domination of the great combinations, and that today the independent oil and tobacco manufacturer is enjoying the right to engage in business with a fair opportunity to compete.

Increase in Stock Values.

He explained the increase in value of the stock of the various Standard Oil companies since the dissolution, by stating that prior to the publicity given these corporations by the government decisions, the public was unaware of the intrinsic value of Standard Oil stock, and that when the government succeeded in disclosing Standard Oil earnings and assets, investors naturally began to find out their worth and the stocks steadily increased in price.

In keeping with "New Nationalism", the subject of his address, Mr Kellogg proposed still other steps for the more equitable conduction of the business of the great corporations. He advocated the institution of a corporation commission in the department of commerce and labor with a right to supervise industrial corporations of this country, stating that it was futile to attempt to control the industries of the country through criminal or civil actons prosecuted in the courts by the federal government.

This commission, he stated, should amount to the federal license, and control of corporation, but should not attempt to control the prices of these corporations.

Federal-Owned Trusts.

Mr. Kellogg who injected a new note into the Symphony of "New Nationalism" by suggesting the feasibility of federal owned and operated trusts, in competition with those already privately in existence, and further stated that where the wealth of a corporation endangered the independence of other industries it should be subject to government supervision. Such corporate control would apply only to those trusts doing interstate business.

In touching on the initiative and referendum, Mr. Kellogg stated, under present circumstances, he could see no objections to the people initiating these amendments if they were surrounded by reasonable safeguards so as to prevent sudden and unwise changes in the fundamental law of the state.

With regard to the recall of officials, Mr. Kellogg was of the opinion that the short elective term was a wiser provision for the removal of an offending officer. The judiciary, he said, should be as far as possible removed from the influence of the other two branches of the government.

Mr. Kellogg saw no danger to the United States through the excessive wealth of individuals, stating that 'No individual ever has monopolized and controlled the industries of the country, or ever will do so except through the course of the law."

In closing, he made a strong plea for paternal legislation, looking toward the welfare of the workingmen.

IS OPPOSED TO DUAL TICKETS

Secretary of State Agrees With Chairman Daugherty.

Columbus, O., Aug. 28.—It is stated that Secretary of State Charles H. Graves, who is the state's chief election officer, is prepared to rule that a political candidate who has accepted a place on the state ticket of one party can not accept a place on the state ticket of another party. In other words, that Republican, Democratic or Socialist state nominees can not go on the Bull Moose state ticket.

Graves' ruling will back up the claim now being made by Republican Chairman Daugherty that it would be illegal for Republican state nominees to accept Bull Moose nominations. Daugherty is expected to ask Graves for an official opinion this week, and Graves will then make public the full text of his ruling.

Money may not bring happiness, but every man on earth would like to try the experiment for himself.

GREAT BRITAIN FILES PROTEST

Against the Recent Panama Canal Bill

PASSED BY CONGRESS AND SIGNED BY TAFT

More Extended Objection To Come Later.

England's Notice Is Very Brief, but, After Thorough Study of the Bill, the Reasons for Objection Will Be Formulated at Length—Question May Be Taken to The Hague Tribunal.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Alfred Mitchell Innes, charge d'affaires of the British embassy, and British ambassador pro tem., today entered, at the state department, Great Britain's official protest against the provisions of the Panama bill, signed by President Taft last Saturday, particularly mentioning the admission of American coastwise ships through the canal without payment of tolls.

The protest was very brief, merely stating that Great Britain had taken official recognition of the passage of the bill, and wished to enter a "formal protest" against it.

A more extended protest, it was stated, would be registered with the secretary of state as soon as the officials of the British foreign office have had an opportunity to thoroughly study the bill, and to formulate their objections.

Great Britain also served notice that, if necessary, she would demand that the question of the nonconformity of the bill and the Hay-Pauncefote treaty be laid before The Hague tribunal.

BURNS WILL CLEAN THE CRESCENT CITY

Has Proof of Widespread Graft in New Orleans.

New York, Aug. 28—New Orleans is honeycombed with graft, and Detective William J. Burns is going to clean up. He said to himself Tuesday afternoon in an interview, in which he made sensational charge that millions of dollars of graft has been levied by municipal officers of the Crescent city upon divekeepers and the underworld in general.

Burns is going to leave for New Orleans in person in a few days, and report to the committee of public spirited citizens, which hired him to probe municipal conditions.

"Conditions in New Orleans are appalling," said the detective this afternoon. "Many of the chief officials are involved. We have facts to prove that millions of dollars in graft has been collected by public officers. My investigation has been conducted under orders from public spirited citizens. They are convinced that corruption there equalled that in New York, but they needed proof. We got it for them but the search is not over yet."

EDWARD DE LONGE IS ARRESTED IN CLEVELAND

Is Held To Answer to Charge of Passing Bad Check.

MARION OFFICER GOES AFTER THE PRISONER

William Minshall Is Prosecuting Witness—Louis Aller Pays Five Dollars To Secure His Automobile. The Hearing of Thomas Hanegan Is Continued—Police Items.

Edward DeLonge was arrested in Cleveland, Tuesday night, and is being held for the local department to be returned here to answer to a charge of passing a worthless check. He came to Marion, August 21, and made his headquarters at the Hotel Marion.

DeLonge represented himself as being the head of the Union Life Insurance company. He gave a check on the company for $15 to William Minshall, proprietor of the hotel, in payment for a small bill, and soon after left the city. The check was returned to the hotel man and he made a report to the police. DeLonge was traced to Columbus, Chillicothe and other cities and was finally located in Cleveland, where he was arrested, Tuesday night.

Wednesday, Minshall filed an affidavit against DeLonge, and the warrant to bring him back to Marion was turned over to Captain Bond. The officer went to Cleveland, Wednesday morning, to secure the prisoner.

Louis Aller, a contractor, whose home is at La Rue, called at police headquarters, Wednesday, to secure his automobile, which was being held there for a bill of expense. Tuesday night, the auto of Aller was driven into the yard of Harry W. Eckles, on York street. It collided with a buggy of Mr. Eckles, badly smashing the buggy besides damaging the garden and lawn.

The auto was deserted in the yard and Eckles notified the police. Captain Bond and other officers went to the scene and towed the machine in, the expense for this task being five dollars. When Eckles called at police headquarters, that morning, he stated that the auto had been left standing in the West End and that some person had stolen it and driven it away. However, the auto was held for the expense of bringing it in and Aller settled. Eckles made an effort to make a settlement with Aller for the damage done to his buggy, but Aller gave him little satisfaction. A suit will probably be the result.

The hearing of Thomas Hanegan, charged with selling intoxicants one week ago Sunday, which was to have been held in the mayor's court Wednesday, was postponed until September 24, because of the failure of the prosecuting witness and defendant to appear. Hanegan's bond remains at $200, the same as furnished by him for his appearance Wednesday.

The storage room at the rear of the Brook Club Distilling company, on north Main street, was broken into, Tuesday night, and two cases of pint bottles of beer and a case of quart bottles were secured by the thieves. Entrance to the room was gained by breaking the lock on the door.

The robbery was reported to the police, next morning, and Officers Powell and Thompson set to work to try and locate the stolen beer. The officers found some of it secreted under a car in the Big Four yards, and hardly did they find it than they noticed Michael Shea and Edward Mortell approaching near the car. As they had previously been seen in the yards, the officers took them into custody and locked them in the city prison pending an investigation

PICTURES OF ROADS IN MARION COUNTY

A Protest Entered by G. H. Ritter of Near Morral.

Pictures depicting samples of roads in Marion county that keep farmers out of town and which, good-roads advocates say, contribute to the high cost of living, have been forwarded to the county commissioners by G. H. Ritter, with a protest against such conditions

Ritter owns a farm near Morral. For four miles the road to his farm he says, is a hard and level stone pike, good all the year.

Suddenly, two miles from his place, the pike ends. A mud road takes its place Ruts, a foot deep, are flanked by ridges rising one foot and two feet high in places above the level.

A traction engine, newest aid to the modern farmer, is hauling a train of wagons a quarter of a mile ahead. The engine is more efficient and cheaper than horses. It will haul five and six wagons, bearing two tons each, a load for twenty horses on a fair average road. The monster engine stalls.

The pictures tell the story. A number of boys are shown standing in the high ridges looking over the furrowed road. The scenes depicted are on a bad quarter stretch of the joint county road built by Marion and Wyandot counties.

MRS. LESTER MASON PRESENTS HER ANSWER

Wants Husband's Divorce Petition Dismissed.

TEMPORARY ALIMONY ASKED BY DEFENDANT

Clifton Hofstetter Sues His Wife for a Divorce—Plaintiff States That Defendant Is Insanely Jealous and Leaves Him Without Reason. Some Court Items.

Asking that the petition of her husband, Lester F Mason, who seeks a divorce, be dismissed, Minnie D. Mason, the defendant, through Attorney H. Edmund Hill, filed an answer in the court of common pleas Thursday. She admits that at the time of her marriage to the plaintiff, she was the owner of a farm in Michigan, near Chesaning, that he sold the farm and purchased two acres near Tiffin, Seneca county; that they later moved to Agosta, where her husband purchased a general store, and that they lived together until August 1, 1912.

The defendant does not deny that at times she became jealous of her husband, as charged by him in his petition, but avers that she will abundantly be able to show to the court that she had just reason to be so. She admits she accused the plaintiff with undue intimacy with certain women, and says she expects to make full proof of the facts. Most emphatically does she deny that she ever wilfully disregarded any of her martial duties. She further denies the plaintiff's statemnt that he would have $2,500 when all of his debts were made, and says that he would have $3,700 instead. She declares her husband is rapidly converting the stock of his store into money, and asks that the court properly provide for her during the pendency of the action by allowing her reasonable temporary alimony.

Catherine Cone, who, July 10 last, brought suit for divorce from David A. Cone, had her petition dismissed Wednesday afternoon. The Cones are again living together.

Because his wife is alleged by him to be insanely jealous, Clifton Hofstetter, through Mouser & Moloney, brought an action for a divorce, Thursday, from Bertha Alice Hofstetter, whom he married in this city, July 11, 1900. He says that she has made his married life miserable. Two years ago, last July, he says, she went away, without advising him, and took their seven-year-old son, thus causing him untold anguish.

The plaintiff further says that he finally "succeeded in coaxing the defendant to return and live with him." This she did until some time in July, 1911, when, "fomenting with jealous, and maddened by unholy thoughts, she again deserted plaintiff, without even advising plaintiff as to her destination."

Mrs. Hofstetter is now living with her parents at Ada, Hardin county. The husband and father does not ask the custody of the child, but says "that he is now paying the sum of $10 a month for the support of said child, which he is willing to continue to do, until said child becomes older."

BIG WARSHIPS SCARE REBELS

Who Promise To Behave Better,

SAYS LETTER WHICH REACHES WASHINGTON

Cancellation of Taft's Orders Explained.

President Isn't Sure of Available Force of Marines in Nicaragua and Arrival of Reassuring Letter from Commander Washington Leads Him To Recall Order Sending Troops to Central America.

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Taft's cancellation of his order to the Tenth infantry to proceed to Nicaragua was due to two causes.

First, to the fact that the chief executive was not fully informed as to the available force of marines in Nicaragua.

Second, because of reassuring news from Commander Thomas Washington, of the gunboat, Denver, which arrived at Corinto Tuesday night.

Commander Washington's letter to the state department was the most reassuring word from Nicaragua in two weeks. The commander stated that conditions at Corino were comparatively peaceful; that a detachment of ninety American marines from Managua had arrived at Corinto on Tuesday; that the rebels, frightened by the big fighting ships in the harbor, had promised to restore railway and telegraph communication with the interior, and to provide safe conduct for troops to protect foreign property.

Conditions in Interior.

Conditions in the interior of Nicaragua, Commander Washington says, appear to be serious, because of the famine which threatens the country, and increased rebel activity in the vicinity of Chinandega. The American commander does not think Americans in Corinto are in any imminent danger. He was unable to get in touch with Managua.

A dispatch from Consul Johnson at Corinto, dated a few hours before Commander Washington's telegram, reported the receipt of numerous rebel threats to capture and sack the city unless it surrendered to the insurrectos.

The governor of Corinto replied that the city is under American protection, and the rebel emissaries are appaerntly convinced of the futility of attacking any town protected by Uncle Sam's men.

A dispatch from Minister Weitzel at Managua, delayed three days in transmission, reported conditions unchanged. He said rebels were reported to be moving on the capital. It is probable some of the sailors, landed from the Denver, will be sent at once to Managua to be reinforced later by a portion of the crew and marines on the California, which is expected to reach Corinto today.

California Arrives.

Washington, Aug 29. — The cruiser, California, arrived at Corinto today.

On receipt of the message Acting Secretary Twining wired Panama to have the California return to San Juan del Sur temporarily, to act as a relay wireless station in connection with the Denver and Annapolis, now at Corinto.

The message reporting the arrival of the California was delayed in transmission, and did not reach the navy department until about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Admiral Sutherland, who is on the California, will assume charge of the military operations in Corinto and vicinity, acting in conjunction with Minister Weitzel at Managua. The arrival of the California increased the number of American troops now on Nicaraguan soil to 1,500.

Church Booth Is Popular at County Fair.

Dry-County Thirsty Ones Call Too Frequently at Water Cooler To Refresh Themselves — Suspicion Are Aroused and Investigation Reveals Horrible Truth—Ladies Are Now Inconsolable.

Waynesburg, Penn. Aug. 29.—An ordinary, harmless-appearing barrel of water with the words All welcome" painted on it, was the magnet that drew many hundreds of the visitors at the big Waynesburg fair, Wednesday. The barrel of water had been placed on a stand alongside the refreshment booth of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church, and filled with water for the tired and thirsty to drink.

After the first few passersby had stopped to quench their thirst, bystanders began to notice that the drinkers seemed to linger a long while over their cup of water. Soon the thirsty ones began to grow numerous and in a few minutes the crowd around the water barrel, which had grown to a large dimension, was being augmented constantly by new arrivals.

Waynesburg, being a dry town in dry Green county, the good Samaritans who placed the cold, refreshing spring water on tap did not suspect anything until one of them decided to try the water. She nearly collapsed when she tasted it.

In a trice the two women dashed, secured male attendants, and the barrel was rolled out of the crowds reach.

"Too bad," said an old farmer, who had lingered around the barrel after the first drink he had taken, "that's the nearest to the real liquor I've tasted since old Green county went dry."

One of the ladies' aid confessed later that they had borrowed the barrel, and on being told that it had been thoroughly cleansed, they had neglected to wash it out. It was later learned that the barrel had contained whisky eighteen years old and had only been emptied a few days before.

The members of the Ladies' Aid society are now inconsolable.

THE HAPPY SEQUEL TO A COLLEGE ROMANCE

Miss Helena G. Mouser and Mr. J. M. Young Married.

YOUNG PEOPLE GIVE FRIENDS A SURPRISE

Couple Married by Dr. W. A. King at His Study in the Church—Mr. and Mrs. Young Inform Parents of Bride of Marriage and the Parental Blessing Is Ready.

Climaxing a college romance that began a year ago, Miss Helena Grant Mouser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant E. Mouser, and Mr. James M. Young, son of an East Liverpool drygoods merchant, were married at the Trinity Baptist church, Thursday afternoon of last week. Dr. Walter A. King performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by Miss Ruth McKinnis and Miss Eva Allen.

The marriage came as a big surprise, even to the bride's parents. Since Sunday the groom had been a guest of the Mouser home. When the former congressman went home to luncheon, Thursday, his guest asked to speak with him privately.

Never dreaming of what was coming, the young man blurted out that he wanted to marry Miss Helena. The father, after recovering, advised that both finish their schooling, and that his daughter's sweetheart learn a profession before the event.

It seemed to be understood then that the young people were to get married, though not so soon, and the father returned to his law offices under the impression that the marriage would not take place until at least after Mr. Young had finished his schooling at Kenyon, where he was a sophomore.

That afternoon, however, Miss Mouser and Mr. Young came up town. They waited until the newspapers had gone to press, then went to the probate court, after visiting the county auditor's office and getting Miss Eva Allen to accompany them as a witness.

The license was issued by Deputy Probate Judge John F. Brigel. The bride gave her age as eighteen and the groom gave his as twenty-one. From the courthouse, after telephoning Miss McKinniss, they went to the church, where the minister was attending a meeting. The marriage took place in the pastor's study.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when the newly-married lovers reached the Mouser home, and informed Mrs. Mouser.

"Grant, come home to the wedding supper," Mrs. Mouser said to her husband over the telephone, later, "and make the best of it. It's all over."

Attorney Mouser hurried home. All was soon forgiven, and the young people received the parental blessing. Following the wedding supper, the bride and groom left for Columbus, where they remained over night, and left Friday for Sidney to visit Dr. Bebee, a relative of the groom.

This fall the groom will go to Buffalo, where he will enter a college of medicine. His bride will accompany him and may take up the same studies.

Mrs. Young has been a favorite in Marion's young social set. She is charming, beautiful and accomplished. She is a graduate of the Marion High school and took a three-years course in two at Harcourt seminary at Gambier, graduating with honors this year. Her parents had planned to send her to Europe next year to study music. She is a member of several college fraternities, and of the B. O. F. club, of this city.

Mr. Young is a Beta Theta Pi. He is rather tall, dark-complexioned and good looking. He was a brilliant student at Kenyon college. His father is not only one of the leading East Liverpool drygoods merchants, but he is extensively interested in the big pottery industry in that part of Ohio.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's for One Thing Only, and Marion People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything.

Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys.

Here is reliable evidence of their worth:

J. C. Grandstaff, N. Franklin St., Richwood, Ohio, says: "About two years ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and kidney trouble and they benefited me so greatly that I have had no need of a kidney remedy since. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, not only from my own experience but from what I have heard other people say about them."

The above is not an isolated case. Mr. Grandstaff is only one of many in this vicinity who have gratefully endorsed Doan's. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Grandstaff had. 50c all stores. MARION FRIENDS ARE GIVEN SURPRISE

John Fairbanks Announces His Marriage.

John Fairbanks, who arrived home from Arkansas, Thursday night, greatly surprised his parents and friends, with the announcement of his marriage which took place in Jamestown, New York, last November.

About two years ago Mr. Fairbanks went to Buffalo, where he entered business and where he met his wife, who was formerly Miss Gertrude Robbins, of that city. They were married, November 15, at Jamestown, New York. Last March Mr. Fairbanks took a contract for dredging at Helena, Arkansas, and when he left for the West he took his bride with him. Mrs. Fairbanks has been spending the past three weeks with her parents in Buffalo, and will join her husband here, Sunday. They have not decided where they will locate.

Mr. Fairbanks is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fairbanks, of north State street, and is very well known in Marion. His wife is a charming young woman with many accomplishments.

JOINED IN MARRIAGE IN THE CAPITAL CITY

Miss Hazel Sparks and Mr. Claude Pinney.

Miss Hazel Sparks, of Columbus, but formerly of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Claude Pinney, of Kankakee, Illinois, by Rev. Charles E. Elson at the M. E. parsonage in Columbus, Thursday. The young people are spending their honeymoon in this city visiting relatives. From here they will go to Marion, Indiana, enroute to Kankakee, where they will make their future home. The groom is employed by the American Express company at that place.

The bride is quite well known in Marion and has many friends here who will be pleased to learn of her marriage.

ARE MARRIED AT THE HOME OF MINISTER

Mrs. Anna Baraer and Mr. Jesse L. Self United.

Mrs. Anna Baraer and Mr. Jesse L. Self were united in marriage by Rev. John C. Guenther, pastor of the German M. E. church, at his home on south Prospect street, about 11 o'clock Saturday. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Self, Mr. Self being a brother of the groom. The newly-married couple will enjoy a wedding trip during the next few weeks. They will make their home in this city on their return.

PROGRAM COMPLETED FOR THE 1913 ASSEMBLY

Chautauqua Board Buys a Great Offering.

INCREASES OUTLAY OVER LAST YEAR

And Clings to the Resolution To Engage Talent Exclusively Which Had Not Been on Previous Programs—Wonderful Musical Offerings and Great Lecturers.

The Marion County Chautauqua board burned the candle late at the adjourned meeting at the office of President W. T. Jones, Friday night. But when the meeting adjourned the association had closed contracts for the greatest Chautauqua offering ever made in one assembly. This may read like an advertisement, but it is only an offering of the news, for next year's assembly is as far in the future as July 26 and August 3, 1913.

The program costing $500 to $800 more than any previous offering, lacks only an addition to the morning program to be complete. That place was held open until an engagement could be sought, which has been much recommended by patrons. All numbers are straight-out contracts, with fixed datings, save one, and that will be tentative less than a week. Ben Gweet's players for Wednesday, July 30, were purchased but the bureau people have agreed to deliver only in case of other engagements making a possible routing. The management is clinging to an option on the Woodland Players for the same date, and means to have all uncertainty removed within a week.

The board literally kept its resolution to make up a program of entirely new offerings to the Marion assembly. It turned down the great joint debate between Captain Hobson and Governor Hanley for that reason. It secured a new superintendent for the same reason, and will have one of the greatest in the business in Dr. J. P. Gilbert, who is a lecturer and man of science, and will contribute to the morning programs with his fascinating lectures on nature studies.

The afternoon and evening programs include the following attractions:

Musical Numbers.

The Kellogg-Haines Singing Party, in varied program, including opera, one full concert and three preludes.

Carter's Original Jubilee Singers, one day of preludes.

Schuman's Orchestra, in two prelude concerts, longer than the usual.

The International Opera Company, in two extra preludes. This company and Schuman's Orchestra would be big attractions alone, for full programs.

Chicago Ladies' Orchestra, one full concert and one prelude.

The Hungarians, orchestra, prelude concerts, two days.

Lectures and Entertainers.

Dr. Lincoln McConnell.

Dr. H. W. Wiley.

Dr. James S. Montgomery

The Sadlers, for two days, morning, afternoon and evening. The Sadlers, in lectures and entertainments, can give an entire Chautauqua program themselves. Assembly know-it-alls say the Sadlers will be the big hit of the 1913 program.

Ben Greet's Players or the Woodland Players.

Miss Willis, in "Every Woman."

Judge Kavanaugh, of Chicago.

Albert Wiggam.

Explorer Wirt.

Charles R. Taggart.

Governor Vardaman.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis.

Representatives of the Coit and the Chicago Managers' bureau were present at the meeting, Friday night, and were not especially prejudiced by the contracts awarded them, but they unhesitatingly declared it to be the biggest nine days' program sold anywhere for 1913.

With this matter closed up, the Chautauqua board will again turn its attention to a suitable place for holding assemblies in the future.

After a walk in the sun and wind rub a little almond oil on the face, leave it on for ten minutes and then wipe off with a soft rag. It will prevent a burned, uncomfortable feeling and will remove any dirt there may be as well as washing would do.

The young people arrived here Saturday to visit at the home of Mr. Barnhart's parents, after which they will go to Milwaukee where the groom is employed as a bookkeeper by a large lumber concern.

Until a couple of months ago Mr. Barnhart was employed in the office of the Marion Steam Shovel company. He went to Milwaukee June 1.

SAMUEL A. M'NEIL A SUICIDE AT RICHWOOD

Hangs Himself with a Strap in Office Friday Evening.

A VERY PROMINENT RESIDENT OF VILLAGE

Wife Worried by His Absence Follows Him to Office and Finds His Body Hanging — Her Screams Quickly Bring Assistance—Deplorable Passing of a Fine Citizen.

Richwood, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Financial worries and failing health are believed to have prompted the suicide of Samuel A. McNeil, fifty-eight years old, pension attorney, soldier and well known citizen, whose body was found hanging in his office by his wife, Friday night at 9:10 o'clock. Life had been extinct, according to the coroner about forty-five minutes, the body being still warm when cut down.

Mr. McNeil's suicide caused a profound sensation here. He was widely known throughout Central Ohio. He was visitors' attendant in the state house during the administration of the late Governor Bushnell, and also a clerk in Adjutant General Axeline's department.

Mr. McNeil seldom ever went up town after supper. When he told his wife, Thursday, he had to go back to his office, she says she felt that all was not just right, although she had no intimation that her husband contemplated suicide.

When Mr. McNeil failed to return home by 9 o'clock, his wife became alarmed and went to the office. The door was locked. Something, she says, impelled her to crawl through a window into his office in the Richard's building. She switched on the electric light, and the dangling form of her husband met her startled gaze. Her screams brought spectators from the adjoining telephone exchange, and the news was quickly spread over the town and county. A large crowd soon collected.

Mr. McNeil had placed a gas pipe over two partitions. Mounting a chair he adjusted the loop in a heavy rope about his neck, tied one end of the rope to the gas pipe and then kicked the chair from under him.

The suicide was the father of O. S. McNeil, who formerly lived on Lincoln avenue, Marion, now a resident of Columbus; Mrs. Anna Fulton, of Richwood, and Charles McNeil, of Broadway.

THE MONNETT FAMILY HOLDS ITS REUNION

Those in attendance from Marion were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Monnett, Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Monnett, Miss Ada Monnett and Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Linn and family.

The world gets wise to political reformation slowly. We could have given authoritative testimony two years ago that the big trusts and corporations had ceased making contributions to Republican campaigns in Ohio

A joint debate between T. R. and Senator La Follette would add to the merriment, possibly the enlightenment of the campaign.

The railroads are busy There is little kicking about rates, the railroads themselves complaining most. Business is going along swimmingly. There has been a great harvest, and a bumper corn crop will soon be out of danger There is work for everybody The loafers on the court house steps have to shift, every now and then, to avoid it. Wages are the highest ever. Things are doing pretty well, one might smile and rejoice to be an American, until he hears a Bull Moose or Socialistic plaint of woe and misery. Try the sunlight.

A correspondent writes to know why some genius hasn't invented some device for the feminine rider on the rear of the motorcycle to cling to. The idea! And a man in front!

In order to counter a wrong impression the women suffragists in Minneapolis are going to darn socks at the state fair in Minnesota, and will adopt the darning needle as their emblem. The latter is to give point to the contention that votes do not necessarily interfere with good housekeeping. Smart women up in Minneapolis. They know that hole-proof hosiery is fast coming into vogue.

The Chicago Tribune calls attention to the enthusiasm over river navigation this year. We know a man whom the Tribune worships who will take a long trip in November, starting on the evening of the fifth. The popular name of the river is Salt

Doctor Wilson has sent out notice that his campaign manager will not accept donations in excess of $10,000 from any one source. Not being a Wilson booster, this order in no manner restrains us. But had we been, we would accept the refusal in a kindly spirit, and wish the dear doctor an ampleness of small fees like ten thousand.

There is inquiry down at Columbus for the Ohio flag. There is one, to be sure. The general assembly described it by law, ten years ago, on a dull day, to humor the member who conceived the idea, but who ever saw one or can describe it? Old Glory looks good enough for Ohio, for we are one of the shining stars in the great forty-eight.

Perhaps the real ideal in politics would be the elimination of the expenditure of money altogether. Half of the big sums expended are utterly wasted There are precinct hangers-on in both parties who have more cash on election day than any other of the year, and they haven't even the influence to provoke a man to go to the polls.

Governor Marshall, of Indiana, who is also candidate for vice president on the wrong-end-first Democratic ticket, has a homely but effective way of putting things. Discussing the I. and R as a cure for alleged lack of government by the people, Governor Marshall said: "It is a fraudulent issue, for the people rule now as freely as they take the trouble to rule, when they take more trouble to rule, they will rule more."

With Colonel Roosevelt's love for explaining things, he may now revel in anticipation of the probe into the expenditures made in the presidential primary campaign We do not expect all the truth, but half of it will be very interesting.

Now that Colonel Roosevelt knows "for the first time" that $125,000 of Stndard Oil money went into his 1904 campaign, we shall expect him to at once order George Perkins to pay it back, with the Steel Trust or Harvester Trust money which he is sanctifying this season.

The Bull Moose campaign committee, it is said, will put out films in the "moovies" showing the incidents in Roosevelt's life from college to the time of his present political piracy We will bet that the pictures will not show the secret midnight conferences with Morgan and Perkins, over the T. C C and I Co, his rescue of the black soldiers in Cuba, or his historic appearance at the Gridiron club

Congress appropriated ninteen millions more than a billion dollars for federal expenditure during the fiscal year to end June 30, 1913 It looks big, but the great Tom Reed made the logical explanation, several years ago. This is a billion-dollar country.

A Washington orchardist has produced an apple measuring seventeen and one-half inches in circumference and weighing up to forty-one ounces strong. It had to be supported by a sling of mosquito netting to keep it from falling from the tree We have a horrible suspicion that this was a Ben Davis However, we are offering a new silver dollar for the Marion county horticulturist who can beat this record.

EVERYBODY FAVORS GOOD ROADS.

The Youngstown Telegram approves the "good roads, fifty-million-dollar bonding proposal," not upon its merits as a business proposition as it is drafted, but solely upon the ground that good roads are desirable and beneficial Then it proceeds to say that if the money is spent in macadam construction it will be largely wasted, it follows with a strong endorsement of brick And there it is. Everybody is in favor of good roads; everybody recognizes that the building of main thoroughfares is a proper prerogative of state government. But everybody is not agreed that in order to build roads at state expense the people should be taxed to pay both principal and interest upon bonds running for thirty-five years, or that in this purely experimental era of road building the state shall be committed to a wasteful, extravagant policy, with no assurance of securing good roads We are in favor of good roads, and, by the same token, we are opposed to the fifty-million-dollar bond proposal.

VETERAN SOLDIERS AND GENERAL BROWN.

[From the National Tribune.]

The Republicans of Ohio have done eminently the wisest thing in placing at the head of their gubernatorial ticket Past Commander-in-Chief Robert R Brown, of Zanesville.

Comrade Brown is a man upon whom all the warring factions in the party should unite and all veterans and relatives of veterans enthusiastically support Ever since the war he has been a stalwart, fighting progressive Republican, and given his time, abilities and money unstinted to the party No man has been more loyal and helpful to his friends, the party and its nominees Certainly all Republicans should recognize and appreciate this long-continued fidelity.

He has even a far stronger claim on the veterans, their children and relatives. As chairman of the G. A. R national committee on pensions he worked for years, persistently, unflaggingly and with consummate tact and ability in the promotion of pension legislation. Very much of the legislation of which the veterans have enjoyed the benefit for years was due to Comrade Brown's efforts, and he laid the foundations for the act of May 11, 1912.

Therefore, Comrade Brown should receive the vote of every Republican who believes in recognizing and rewarding long, faithful and unselfish devotion to the party thru all storms and stress.

He should receive the vote of every veteran in Ohio in recognition of his lifelong and effective advocacy of their rights.

He should receive the vote of every son, son-in-law and grandson of a veteran in grateful recognition of what has been secured for the veterans.

He should receive the vote of every patriotic man who believes that the safety and permanence of this government depend absolutely on the courage and self-sacrifice of its manhood. Therefore, a man who represents so completely the splendid young manhood of the Nation, who saved it from destruction, should be honored by the best in the gift of the people.

Comrade Brown is one of the rank and file of the Union army. From Aug 9, 1861, to Nov. 25, 1865, he was always in his place, musket in hand, in the ranks of Co. A, 15th Ohio. Think what that meant in a regiment which has the official right to incribe on its banners Shiloh, Corinth, Stone River, Liberty Gap, Chickamauga, Mission Ridge, Rocky Face Ridge, Resaca, Cassville, Pickett's Mills, Kenesaw, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta, Lovejoy Station, Franklin, Nashville. No one can show a better record than that.

Comrade R. B. Brown is an ideal representative of the men who carried muskets from 1861 to 1865, and he should sweep the state with an old-time Republican majority.

No man nominated against him can have anything like his claim upon the suffrages of the people of Ohio

WHERE T. R. MISSED HIS CHANCE.

The public has read about Standard Oil campaign contributions with a good deal of interest. Until the probe of campaign contributions is resumed, and there are added revelations—some relating to more recent political scrambles—the chief interest is in Colonel Roosevelt's efforts to clear himself of a persistent suspicion. We would hardly be fair if we did not say that we believe Roosevelt held aloof from any bargain for these contributions. But we believe he knew of the making of Standard and other contributions, and wrote his letters of protest afterwards, as Secretary Knox suggested, to make the record look right. The Colonel confesses that he said "This will make the record straight," but protests that no sinning mortal dare suspect such a remark from one so holy as he.

If the late Marcus Hanna were living, he would talk frankly about contributions prior to 1904. He believed in them. He believed big business was interested in the national policy That day has gone. We have had the mental and moral reformation put into statutes. So, the revelation that involves Colonel Roosevelt is important only as it helps us measure the sincerity, or insincerity of this great proclaimer and professed purist

Suppose Colonel Roosevelt's statement is true, that he ordered the contribution returned. If that utterance had been sincere, if it had been more than an expression to help "make the record straight," does any man believe that it would not have been returned? He was more than the party head, he was president of the United States His wish was the kingly command Surely Mr Cortelyou, who left the Roosevelt cabinet to head the Republican committee and conduct the campaign, would have carried out the order of his chief. If Roosevelt meant all he says now, what a record he would have in the letter of Cortelyou returning the hundred thousand and the proper receipt for the same That would indeed have made "the record straight."

There is another phase Nobody disputes Colonel Roosevelt being a shrewd politician, and having an inordinate love for gallery play. We saw a sample when he climbed a box car in this city. Suppose the Colonel really meant to refuse the Standard's money, or truly meant to have it returned What an opportunity he had for posing and advertising Think of that oversight! Why, it would have been worth the hundred thousand

Alas! The Colonel doesn't convince us We see no crookedness We see only insincerity and hypocrisy Yet he turns and brands Secretary Philander C Knox as a liar, because the latter said the Colonel told him he had written ordering the money returned (after it was enpended!) to make the record straight In the light of American intelligence, we shall have the accurate measure of the great Bull Mooser before the campaign is completed

LET US HEAR FROM MR. ARCHBOLD.

We do not profess to know all the truth about the controversy between Mr Archbold and Mr. Roosevelt, and as to whether or not the activity of the Roosevelt administration against the Standard was expedited by the refusal of Mr. Archbold and associates to "come across," with a supplementary contribution, but the corroborative evidence is against the Colonel If the reader will search his memory he will recall that the Standard was the only trust toward which the T R administration was markedly hostile. The Beef trust was given a clean bill of health by the ineffable Garfield, who made the unique discovery that the meat barons were doing business at a loss, the Sugar trust was undisturbed, the tea and coffee trusts had no grounds for complaint, the Harvester trust was encouraged as an infant industry, and T R - as god-father at the christening of the Steel and Tobacco trusts And yet the Standard was the only one of the bunch that minimized competition by lowering prices and elevating standards Mr Archbold has some interesting testimony in reserve.

DOCTOR WILSON AND THE FARMER.

There is a lot of guessing as to how the American farmer will vote We have never lacked faith in the good sense of the farmer, when he gets down to a bit of frank confession with himself. We incline to think that reflection will lead him to desire to avoid dangerous disturbance of the country's good fortune. There was a play made to arouse his prejudice on the matter of Canadian reciprocity. The big protection crowd started it, in opposition to President Taft, then the colonel came along and profited thereby, to such extent as the farmers had time to vote last May. But reciprocity is a dead issue now, except up in far western Canada We shall never know whether it would have harmed or benefitted.

But Doctor Wilson has tried to appeal to the farmers on another tack. When addressing a gathering of farmers recently, Doctor Wilson said, speaking especially of the picnic: "On this day I suppose we might say that the farmers occupy the center of the stage When did the farmers ever occupy the center of the stage in our politics? I don't remember any time. I have seen the interests of a great many classes specially regarded in legislation, but I must frankly say that I have seldem seen the interests of the farmers specially regarded in legislation."

There the Doctor slipped a cog. The Democratic candidate for president ought to know better than make such a statement. The farmers have only recently come into their own so far as prices for their products are concerned, but they have held the center of the stage in a score of ways, mainly through the consideration of the Republican party. It has all come with so little blow of bugles that men have not stopped to think about it. If Doctor Wilson had chosen to begin when the Republican party first came into power and became sponsor for the nation's development, he might have mentioned the free-homes act, which was enacted by a Republican congress and president in 1862. He must also have come across some reference to the legislation of the same year which gave rise to the agricultural colleges in the shape in which we know them today, which are a good deal more numerous than the states, and which have equipped thousands of men to be scientific farmers He must have heard something, also, about the agricultural experiment stations under the government's auspices, which are doing a grand work for the tillers of the soil. The national irrigation law of 1902, which is reclaiming the arid West and planting tens of thousands of homes there, is something which somebody must have told him of. Then there is the rural free delivery, which operates on more than 50,000 routes, and which serves 20,000,000 of people. All these aids to the farmer are creations of legislation and all are Republican legisaition.

Of course Doctor Wilson told his farmer friends that "one of the greatest impositions on the American farmer that has ever been devised, is the present tariff legislation." That's what the farmers of Iowa have been thinking, forgetting that American industry, tariff-fostered, has made the American grain market which has made the thrift of American farmers. The tariff has placed the factory beside the farm, has planted cotton mills in the neighborhood of cotton plantations, and has thus enabled the producer to get much higher prices for the things he raises than he would if he had to send them to distant markets, or to export them to Europe. More, it has made an industrial army of largest consuming power in all the world.

The farmer seems to have gotten to the center of the American stage without Doctor Wilson knowing it, and he will stay there unless the nation, in a moment of forgetfulness votes to visit itself with a blight, such as it experienced in 1893 to 1897. Doctor Wilson might help do that.

WILSON'S FREE TRADE FALLACIES.

Governor Wilson's remarks on the tariff, in his letter of acceptance, show how impossible it is for a man educated to an acceptance of free trade ideas to disabuse his mind of fallacies once put forward as serious principles before protection had been fully tried, but the unsoundness of which has been demonstrated over and over again by the severe logic of facts. Thus he says: "We need foreign markets That is another force that is going to break the tariff down. The tariff was once a 'bulwark;' now it is a dam. For trade is reciprocal; we cannot sell unless we buy."

This was accepted as logical once. But facts have disproved it Take the idea of the tariff as a dam, a familiar idea of old free trade writers, and apply the facts In 1895, under the only Democratic tariff law the country has had in 60 years, the entire amount of the export trade of the United States was valued at $793,392,579. In 1911 the foreign exports of the United States were valued at $2,013,549,025. Exports are more than two and one-half times as great as they were in 1895 That dam must have had a good many leaks The exports from the United States last year were far greater than those of Great Britain or Germany or any other country in the world The exports of manufactured goods alone for the last fiscal year were valued at more than a billion dollars, a greater amount than the total exports of all kinds of any year in the history of the country prior to the election of McKinley

The other fallacy is "that we can not sell unless we also buy" If that applies to us, it applies to all other countries. Yet we annually buy from Brazil alone, taking 1911 as a sample year, $73,627,038 in goods in excess of what we sell.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Senator La Follette proposes to have his day in the revelation of political purity on the part of those who profess over much.

It is now claimed by Zurich manufacturers who have established branch factories in this country that they can produce certain grades of Swiss silks as cheaply here as in Switzerland in spite of the difference in wage scales. The establishment of these factories here is an illustration of the beneficent effect of the protective tariff. We are making silk hosiery which is as good in quality and as low in price as that made abroad. But we should never have developed this industry without the aid of the tariff.

Speaking of old-fashioned things what has become of the boy who whittled wall-brackets and whatnots out of the material in empty cigar boxes, and believed every room in the house required three to six of them?

Whatever our share of that Standard Oil contribution in 1904 may have been, we are paying it up now every time we fill the gasoline tank.

THE PROPOSED NEW CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

[BY MALCOLM JENNINGS.]

A Department for the Presentation, Consideration and Discussion of the Forty-Two Amendments to the Constitution of the State, to Which Star Readers Are Invited To Contribute Their Views.

We have, in the exercise of our best judgment, seen fit to oppose what is known as Proposal No. 6, but better known as the I. and R. We have opposed some of the other proposls, most of which are dependent upon this one for their full powers of evil. We know that some people do not agree with us, notably the Socialists. In the spirit of fairness, we reprint the following extracts from the Columbus Socialist, the state organ of the radical wing of the party. In its issue of August 10 In introduction, to a two-column review of the amednments, the Socialist says:

As the Socialist Views Them.

"Comrades, a great opportunity is before us now. The solid Socialist vote added to that of the other organizations, which combined with us to secure a progressive constitution, surely will carry the amendments which our delegates advocated.

"True, hundreds of comrades, who are candidates, are speaking for them nightly and soon our state lecturers will be teaching their value, but you need a printed statement of what is to be secured through each of the amendments we advocate to show to others. The facts will convince them that an opportunity now offers for an enormous stride, through political action to the achievement of the distribution of the products of labor.

"Twenty-four of the amendments will be supported by all Socialists who learn what laws are made possible by them and what they directly require."

Following this are arguments favoring Amendments Nos. 4, 5, 6, 10 11, 12, 13, 14, 17, 22, 26, 29, 30 32, 33, 34, 37, 40 and others.

We gather almost at random the following striking expressions about certain amendments, the numbers of which are given.

"No. 32.—These sections will go far toward the distribution of wealth which we demand. The second plank in the platform of Marx is, 'heavy progressive or graduated income tax,' and the third the 'abolition of all right of inheritance.'

"No. 5.—Hereafter, juries will determine the amount, after considering the needs of the bereaved and the ability of the guilty capitalist to pay.

"No. 33.—This provides for the supervision and regulation of all corporations by state officers. Surely it is a great step toward the realization of the teaching of Marx, that 'all factories and instruments of production should be owned by the state.'

"No 7.—This empowers the legislature, which we soon will control, to send detectives into the secret places of capitalism, with power to search and sieze:

"No. 6.—'Initiative and Referendum.'

"The importance of the I. and R to acquiring control of the means of production is so well known to all it need not be dwelt upon. While it is not ideal, it will be effective for the revolution, for the people, not capitalists, will rule. The amendment fixes all the detail of the use of the I. and R., so legislatures can't get away from them. Under it we can nullify any appropriation made to support the militia or other hired murderers.

"To get it through the convention a prohibition of the single tax had to be permitted, but that only causes short delay, for our centers can quickly secure the ten per cent needed to initiate it out of the constitution, and the organizations in sympathy with us will furnish the votes.'

The I. and R. in South Dakota.

"Certain I am that it brings on new evils which are very harmful to the state and its people In the first place, it helps the scalawag as often as the good citizen, if not oftener. Every time a law is passed to improve moral conditions, it is referended back to the people by the ragtag element, and eighteen months must elapse before it goes into effect even if by reason of the delay its opponents are not able to bring about its defeat. Also, it is expensive. An unscrupulous politician in my state who wanted to get a certain bill on the statute books, started initiative petitions, and by paying ten cents for each signature got enough of them to compel the submission of the measure at an election. He was defeated but at a cost to the state of $150,000 The initiative and referendum doesn't work as smoothly as those who believe in it think it will."—Governor Vessey, of South Dakota

DAMAGE PROCEEDING IS BEGUN IN COURT

John W. Feig Seeks To Recover $6,000 Damages.

SUIT IS BASED ON PERSONAL INJURIES

Plaintiff Says He Is Employed by Marion Steam Shovel Company and Through the Carelessness and Negligence of Company Suffers Permanent Injuries.

A suit to recover judgment for $6,000 damages against the Marion Steam Shovel company for personal injuries sustained while employed by the corporation named as defendant, was brought in the court of common pleas by John W. Feig, through Attorney H. Edmund Hill, August 23.

May 17, last, the plaintiff claims that he was engaged in painting a steam shovel boom thirty feet long. The beam was placed on a flat car and while he was at work, he avers that he fell by reason of the slipping of an iron bar. He says he fell through the carlessness and negligence of the company employing him The left side of his body struck the edge of the flat car, on which the boom was loaded, his head at the same time striking a barrel on the ground. He says he was permanently injured as a result.

The plaintiff alleges that the company was guilty of negligence in failing to warn him of the danger.

Lester F. Mason, an Agosta merchant, through Mouser & Moloney, August 23, brought an action for a divorce from Minnie D. Mason. The plaintiff sets up that he was married three years ago to the defendant, whose maiden name was Dutton, and whose home was at Agosta. He purchased a farm in Michigan, he says, and lived there six months, when he moved to Tiffin. In the latter place, he says he purchased a home and was steadily employed in an emery wheel works. He afterwards bought the Norton & Son store at Agosta, and moved there to please his wife.

The plaintiff avers that he has two children by a former marriage, and seeks their custody. He says his wife is insanely jealous, so jealous that he can not speak to another woman in his store. Because of her insane and uncalled-for jealousy, the defendant says his wife has threatened to commit suicide. June 15, last, he returned home and found her under the influence of chloroform. He declares that living with her has become a thing impossible, because of her constant nagging and fault-finding, and that he was compelled, by reason of her disposition, to leave her three weeks ago.

Mason says he has $2,500 over and above all of his debts and does the unusual thing by asking that the court grant his wife reasonable alimony

Saturday, Judge W. E. Scofield granted a decree of divorce to Rena E Camm, who sued George F. Camm, June 17 last. Following the hearing, at which the defendant failed to appear, the plaintiff almost collapsed from nervous excitement. Restoratives had to be applied before Mrs. Camm could leave the courthouse.

In her testimony, the witness said her husband had repeatedly cursed and abused her. He frequently struck her, she said, and made her leave her home and earn her own living Since January the plaintiff said that she had not lived with her husband, and had made her own way by taking in washings and performing other hard labor.

After Judge Scofield granted the decree, Attorney Charles H. Conley informed the court that the reason his client did not ask for alimony was that the defendant had threatened to kill her if she did. Mrs. Camm was given custody of their sixteen-year-old son.

In the matter of the receivership sale of the Ohio Milling & Elevator company's property, Judge Scofield has confirmed the sale to J. Wilbur J. Jacoby, and ordered that the proceeds be distributed.

In the suit of Anie Brown against the Ohio Farmers' Insurance company, the defendant has been given leave to plead by September 24.

"I would never have married you had your father not objected to our marriage."

That is what Clarence Hoy is alleged to have said to his wife, Erba, just before he sent her back to Ohio from a Texas ranch, according to the wife, who began proceedings for a divorce in the court of common pleas, through Eymon & Thompson, Monday morning.

Mrs Hoy says that she was married to the defendant, September 4, 1908, and in the following March they went to Texas, where the young husband was employed on a ranch. Frequently, she says, she was left alone in a wild and sparsely settled community until after midnight. She prays for a divorce, custody of their baby and reasonable alimony.

Upon the prayer of Elias Firstenberger, Judge William E. Scofield, Monday morning granted a temporary injunction restraining Pike Commissioners H. J. Klinefelter, W. E. Mautz and Henry Berringer, County Engineer George E. Dwyer and Contractor A. J. Brady from going upon or confiscating any of the Firstenberger land for the use of a proposed pike improvement.

In his application for a restraining order, filed by Carhart & Warner, the plaintiff says he is the owner of sixty acres in Richland township, along which tract of land the county commissioners have granted a petition for the improvement of a free turnpike known as the One Mile Assessment free turnpike.

In the suit of George W. Salter against Emily C. Mayfield and others, the Home Building, Savings & Loan company, has filed an answer and cross-petition, in which a mortgage claim of $516.98, with seven per cent. interest from August 24, 1912, is set up.

Alta Caldwell was granted a decree of divorce from John E. Caldwell by Judge Scofield, Monday morning, on the ground of three years' wilful absence.

Mrs. Caldwell was married to the defendant, November 30, 1897, and brought suit May 31, 1912. She was restored to her maiden name of White.

William M. Carlisle, plaintiff in an action against John W. Clark and others, was Monday directed by Judge Scofield to produce the note in question in court for the inspection of the defendants.s The defendants' motion to secure the costs was overruled because the security already furnished was satisfactory to Clerk W. W. Klinefelter.

A demurrer to the petition of S. E. Hain, in his suit against W. L. Lucas and others, was overruled by Judge Scofield by consent Monday The defendants were given leave to plead by September 7.

A motion to make the divorce petition of Jennie Vigor, who is suing Charles E. Vigor, more definite and certain in regard to certain acts of alleged cruelty prior to March 16, 1911, was sustained by Judge Scofield, Monday morning. Mrs. Vigor was given leave to file an amended petition by September 7. Attorney H Edmund Hill represents the plaintiff and J. Wilbur Jacoby is counsel for the defendant.

Mary Ryan, who was married to John F. Ryan, April 18, 1909, and who brought suit for divorce June 27, 1912, through Eymon & Thompson, was granted a decree by Judge Scofield, Monday, on the ground of gross neglect of duty. She testified that her husband frequently got drunk and abused her.

A decree quieting title as prayed for in the suit of Daniel Sult and others against Benjamin Hinamon and others, was granted by Judge Scofield Monday morning.

Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, came here Monday morning to hear arguments on two demurrers in the suit of the Cincinnati Trust company against the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad company. The demurrers heard by him were those of the Ohio & Western Lime company in causes Nos. 13369 and 12475. Both demurrers say that the Troy Trust company and the Cincinnati Trust company are without capacity to sue. Judge Babst took the matter under advisement.

Monday, Judge Scofield declined to reduce the bond of John Phillipi, charged with burglary. Phillipi was held to the grand jury in the sum of $500.

Upon his promise to comply with the court's former order to pay an allowance to his divorced wife for the maintenance of his child, John Charter, a barber, was not punished for contempt of court when brought before Judge Scofield Monday. The motion to punish for such failure was accordingly dismissed.

HOUSE IS TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Building Is Owned by Frank G. Ulsh East of City.

A house owned by Frank G. Ulsh and occupied by the family of George Bailey, which is located about six miles from Marion on the Caledonia pike, was totally destroyed by fire at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. The fire started in the roof of the house and is supposed to have originated from a spark from the chimney.

The fire was first discovered by the engineer of a passing freight train. Mr Bailey is on a camping trip with three of his sons. His wife five children and Mr. Bailey's brother were in the house at the time. The occupants had just arisen and when the brother started out to do some chores, the engineer of the freight train attracted his attention to the blaze. There being no chance to extinguish the fire, the occupants set to work to save the contents, and all but a little bedding, and some clothing was carried from the house. At the time of the fire, Carl, a six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, was asleep upstairs.

The house was valued at $900 with $600 insurance. The loss of the Bailey family will be very small. The house was insured through J. A. Knapp & Son, who adjusted the claim two hours after the house was destroyed.

THE CALM COURSE OF PRESIDENT TAFT

In a recent interview President Taft marked out for himself a calm course in the pending campaign. Maintaining the manly attitude that was so much to his credit in the campaign for the nomination, he declares that the outcome as respects himself anl his personal fortune is nothing to him. But those who see in this statement the slightest acquiescence to either the Roosevelt or Wilson claims do not know the grim determination of the President. Those who saw him in the heat of the conflict and those who know him personally are assured that the strongest and most indomitable fighter of them all is the man who discusses with a laugh the frenzied follies of Roosevelt, and with calm complacency sees the contortions by which Wilson is seeking to worm himself into popular favor. The president practices none of the mere tricks of the candidate's trade. He does not propagate flaring headlines in the White House gardens, nor does he utilize the poker plays of his Bull Moose opponent in the contest for position. Roosevelt has announced his intention of running recklessly ad with riot over the campaign field, his determination is to try to have others trail after him—to put them on the defensive is the way he expresses it. Persident Taft will have little to do with the wordy output of the former president. But when the latter has spun the yarn of canard and continuacy to its length, the president will step forward with the shears of fact and snip the tangled thread of lies and slander. This he did in the case of the Lorimer libels and other criminal allegations of the man who set aside all truth in the passion of his venom.

That President Taft has plenty of language suited to express his ideas in vigorous form is attested by his speech of acceptance, in which with dignity he nailed the fustian of his former but now reaveaut friend. He laid bare the detestable, misleading motives, the pretentions, the hollow promises and the vicious misconstructions of Roosevelt. This he did for the honor of the party—assailed by the one who also assailed the Republican leaders who were the brains of his administration.

While the president will not be called upon to stump the country he will have along the firing line men capable to defend the Republican principle and national honor as ever stepped forth into the arena, and and these men, with sound sense will appeal to fact. They will uncover casuistry, will beat back Roosevelt and keep Wilson in his limited corner. The truth is mighty and it must prevail, and the truth of a record that is remarkable in its virility and remarkable in its achievements will stand fast in the analysis of the political situations.

No more atrocious use of lies has been set forth than those relating to the president's attitude toward the tariff. He knew and he said the Payne Aldrich bill was far short of perfect. He knew and said however, that it afforded the revenue the Dingley bill did not produce. He knew and pointed out that the passage of that bill would save the country from issuing bonds to meet a deficit such as Cleveland had to meet in similar manner when the Democrats had laid the country's industries prostrate under their infamous tariff tinkering, and the apprehensions that their divided and ill- judged courses brought on. There is no new history in the Payne-Aldrich matter. The one fact of everlasting credit that will shine out for the benefit of President Taft is that he pointed the way for a downward revision of the tariff, and he pointed the way for a scientific reconstruction of the tariff in the interests of every man, woman and child, without regard to station or wealth. He forced the Republican party to adopt the tariff-downward policy when some of its ablest leaders contended there was nothing of such committal in the Republican platform. He made party history, as well as national history, and all the snarling canines who trail at his heels cannot detract from this worthy service. His course in vetoing the hastily considered and purely partisan and thoroughly vicious Democratic measures, prepared to bait him on, will be regarded by historians as a marvelous exhibition of courage, conviction and sound discernment of the true financial and business needs. He can well say in the words of one of the world's leaders of all time, "If others have whereof to boast, I more."—Baltimore American.

The remainder of the street will be resurfaced with sheet asphalt, the gutters to be of brick. This contract was let to J. & M. Doyle, of Erie, Pennsylvania, their bid being the lowest. The estimate of the cost of the work as furnished by Engineer E. A. Scott was $29,347.75, and the bid received from the successful bidders was under these figures. CHRISTOPHER ZEBOLD DIES VERY SUDDENLY

His Death Comes at Jacksonville, Florida.

Richwood, O., Aug. 27.—(Special).—News has reached Richwood of the sudden death, Sunday of Christopher Zebold, which occurred at 9 o'clock in the morning, at Jacksonville, Florida.

The message containing the news of his death was received by his son, Edward Zebold, of Shelby, and he left immediately for Jacksonville. He will bring his father's remains to Richwood, their former home, and it is expected that he will arrive here Wednesday evening. The funeral services will be held from the home of a sister-in-law of the deceased, Mrs. Louisa Zebold, of Beatty avenue, sometime Thursday.

The deceased was seventy-nine years old and had been in failing health for some time. It is supposed that his death was due to apoplexy. His wife died at their home in Richwood, about three years ago, since which time the deceased had resided with his only child, Edward Zebold, of Shelby. He went to Jacksonville last May. He was born in Hocking county and came to Richwood frm Columbus, about thirty years ago. He engaged in farming just west of the village and became quite wealthy. Almost ten years ago, he retired from active life and he and his wife resided in Beatty avenue until her death.

The deceased was a member of the First Ohio cavelry, during the civil war and at the time of his death was a member of Livingston Post, G. A. R., of Richwood, which will have charge of his funeral, Thursday.

The upshot of the matter was that Miss Dairy's petition was tabled until the next meeting, when many other teachers are expected to renew their applications for increases.

Resignations Accepted.

The resignations of Miss Mary Knappenberger, Miss Isabelle Freeland and Miss Dessie Gregory as grade teachers were received and accepted with a vote of thanks for their faithful services in the past. Miss Knappenberger is in Bucyrus Creek, Michigan, and Miss Freeland will teach in East Cleveland.

With reference to Miss Gregory's resignation, Clerk Leantard Lamb-son-Hutchinson said she was going to take one pupil, intimating that she was going to be married.

The bills paid amounted to $2,205, the biggest batch of miscellaneous bills yet allowed by this board at one time. Member Pennell, chairman of the buildings-and-grounds committee, declared that more than $400 of the amount was for repairs to the McKinley building on Uncapher avenue. "That's what we get for the blunder of buying a schoolhouse site in the country," he said.

The site was bought by the old board and Members Pennell and Hill, who were old board members, voted against buying it.

Clerk Hutchinson said the board had only about $8,000 left in the general fund, with the tuition fund overdrawn more than $11,000. However, the members said they would get the money pretty soon from the county auditor, who is making his August settlement.

An Estimate Paid.

The American Warming and Ventilating company of Toledo, was paid an estimate of $5,000 on its contract work at the Lincoln State Street and High school buildings.

The contract for laying Berea stone sidewalks at the McKinley building was let to John H. Kinsler at his bid of sixteen cents the square foot.

Member Pennell said people were using the McKinley building for a grandstand to see ball games played in Webb park. He thought the board should put a stop to it and P. S. Wilson superintendent of repairs, was directed to have the janitor look after the building on Sunday. The janitors may be clothed with police powers.

It was decided that the supply committee should meet in Mr. Hill's office next Friday evening, when the necessary supplies for the opening of the schools, September 9, will be purchased.

Reed Knight was employed as janitor at the McKinley building at a salary of $50 a month.

Pixler Is Elected.

After asking the board members if they had any objections to voting for John V. Pixler, of Rockford, and telling of his qualifications, Superintendent Harriman recommended him for teacher of mathematics and athletic instructor. He said he was a graduate of Miami university, and was very proficient in football. He added that he had little or no experience in teaching, and thought that he should receive at least $75 a month for teaching mathematics and $15 a month for his athletic in-

Tuesday, through Attorney Charles L. Justice, the county commissioners filed a petition, in which the court is asked for an order transferring $10,716.82 from the interest fund to the depleted pike fund. The petition sets up that the transfer is necessary in order to make needed pike repairs.

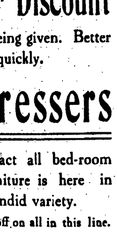
REV. J. P. CURRIN MAY GO TO KENTON

Will Occupy Pulpit of Kenton Church Next Sunday.

Rev. J. P. Currin of this city, may be called to the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Kenton. He will occupy the pulpit of the church next Sunday.

Rev. Philip Bauer, the Kenton First Baptist church minister, has been called to Dayton and will preach his first sermon in the Gem City next Sunday.



"No once or twice in our grim history
Has the path of duty been the way to glory."

As I looked into the faces of these men, when they appeared upon the screen at the kinemacolor exhibition the stimulating words of the golden text of this Lesson, which gathers up the meaning of it all, thrilled to mind, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." I seemed to see a larger, longer company of the faithful ones marching past—men and women who had endured the ultimate test. The martyr host is following in the train of John the Baptist, and of the Greater One whom we heralded.

"Unto Death."

Picturesque, unconventional, rugged, brave, was John, the wilderness prophet. The face of kings could not affright him, nor could the wild beasts make him afraid. Strong in the consciousness that he was a commissioned man with a clear message, he spoke his word in high scorn of consequences. The only trace of fear we can detect in his character is the entirely noble fear that he might fail to declare the whole truth which God had given him. High in eternity's wealth of heroes stands the hairy eater of locusts and wild honey to be modestly religious when religion is not vogue.

But wait! The end is not yet. As the homely Italian proverb has it, "God does not always pay on Saturday—but He always pays." We may entrivate the gift of reaching forward to the bright future to illumine our dark todays.

Reverently standing in the presence of John the Baptist, we are moved to declare that a deep need of our time is for men and women with convictions. God and His world both call for friends who believe something hard enough to work for it. Given a choice between the narrow-minded zealot and the man who is so broad that he does not believe in anything, We choose the former. Our nation was made by men with convictions. The shining epochs in the long stretch of the centuries are those wherein men dared to stand out for causes and convictions. Korea is a luminous land at this hour because there men are going unflinchingly to prison, pain and exile because of the Name.

The Coronation Day.

John seemed to lose in the battle within the walls of old Macherus, 1,500 years ago. He had not been dead many days before a royal proclamation from the One whom he called King greater than Herod declared him a victor, and one of the greatest of the sons of men. This faith that present defeat may mean the ultimate victory is an essential part of the creed of every militant saint. The late Judge Albion W. Tourgee put this creed into a poem:

"I am but dust:
Altho He slay,
Let will I trust.
Through all the fray in Him!"

So boasted one.
Breasting a battle just begun.

The noontide came.
The soldier faced the sheeted flame,
Defying weariness and woe,
And giving ever blow for blow.
From out the din and dust
Of that world-fray

In accents shrill;
In accents shrill;
"Altho He slay,
Yet will I trust!"

The night came down.
Lo, stark and prone—
The warrior lay. Above him thronged
The tide of those who smote and wronged.
The fight was o'er; the wrong had won;
The earth no better, now 'twas done!
His blood soaked up the dust;
Valor and strength were vain.
"Altho He slay, yet will I trust!"
And he was slain.

Dews kissed the plain;
Sunshine and rain
Washed clean the blood-soaked dust;
Flowers sprang above the dead,
And mocked the silly soldier's trust;
Wrong flourished, and the world forgot
That he had lived.

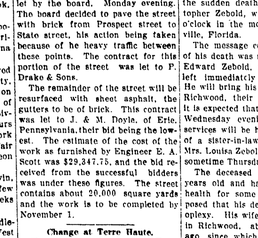
HOSTESS AT A TEN MILLION JEWEL BALL.



Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, whose recent fancy dress ball, given at the luxurious Vanderbilt residence in Newport, has been pronounced the most extravagant affair of its kind ever held in society's summer capital. Its whole tone and color was distinctly oriental. The dance is estimated to have cost $75,000, and it is also declared that the women whose grace and beauty adorned the occasion wore $10,000,000 worth of jewels. First of all the four hundred guests were entertained in the specially constructed theater by a "The Merry Countess" company, imported from New York for the occasion. Two suppers were served, the first at forty tables and the second, a buffet supper or very early breakfast. As cotillion favors the women received embroidered slippers, little jewel cases and gold cigaret holders, while the men were presented with gold cigaret cases and purses from India.

QUEER BANK CHECKS.

Drawn on Wood and Other Things, but They Get the Money.

There is a bank clerk in a western city who has begun to indulge in a hobby for collecting bank checks drawn on queer articles. There hang about this clerk's desk a torn linen handkerchief, a piece of bark, a cuff and various other objects used for the purpose of drawing money from the bank.

Each of these has a story. The clerk began his collection with a bit of lath. This was honored by the bank for $250. It was made into a check by the owner of a sawmill, who, with his son, was in town with no check book. The money was needed to pay the hands. The sawmill man wrote on the bit of lath just what a check correctly drawn would bear and sent his son to the bank to get the money and explain. The lath check was honored after some discussion among the bank officers.

The cuff check was drawn by an actor who while intoxicated had engaged in fisticuffs with a fellow Thespian and had been arrested. He was treated cavalierly in his cell. As he could obtain no paper, he bribed a cop to take his cuff check to a bank. In due course the player received his money and paid his fine.

If one carries a good account it is probable that his bank will honor his check, even if drawn in a freaky way, but as a general thing they are loath to encourage that sort of procedure.—Exchange.

DON'T WANT TO RUN OLD LADIES' HOME

Chicago Y. M. C. A. Fixes an Old Age Limit.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Girls who are twenty-seven years old are able to take care of themselves. That is the ruling of the Young Women's Christian association. They will admit younger girls, who are coming to the city. They have altered their rule because of the heavy demand on them for accommodations.

"Unless we had some age limit, we would soon be running an old maids' home," one of the directors explained.

NEW ALLEGATIONS ARE MADE BY THE COMPANY

Claim George Whysall Is Never the Manager of Road.

NEVER HAS AUTHORITY TO SIGN A CONTRACT

Alleged That John G. Webb Caused Bonds in Sum of $500,000 To Be Issued to Himself and Converts the Proceeds to His Own Personal Use Answer Filed Wednesday.

New allegations are made by the John A. Roeblings Sons' company, of Trenton, New Jersey, in its amended answer and cross-petition filed Wednesday in the suit of the Cincinnati Trust company against the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad company.

Charges are made that George Whysall never was the general manager of the road and that John G. Webb, as president, caused the company's $500,000 worth of bonds to be issued to himself and the proceeds, if in fact any bona fide sale was ever made, appropriated and converted to his own personal use.

The New Jersey company repudiates any contract it may have made with Whysall on the ground that Whysall never had any authority to sign such contract, that his office of general manager was merely pretended, and that the office never did and does not now exist.

The answering defendant, which sold the interurban overhead equipment, valued at $17,000, to the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus road now asserts title to the equipment which is in use on the road connecting Marion with Bucyrus. It claims that the equipment never legally passed from it to John G. Webb, to the interurban company, and it is not now subject to the mortgage deed of trust held by the Troy Trust company.

The answering defendant asks that the road's receivers be compelled to deliver the trolley wire, etc., to the rightful owner, the answering defendant, or that the equipment be separately sold and the proceeds paid to John A. Roeblings Sons' company.

The answer and cross-petition were filed by Kline, Tolles & Morey of Cleveland, who also filed the same company's reply to the answer of the Troy Trust company in the same suit. This reply admits that the John A. Roeblings Sons' company received an $8,000 payment on the overhead equipment of the C., M. & B., but avers that it did so in ignorance of the fact that the instrument purporting to be the contract, was invalid, and in ignorance of the further fact that the shipment was wrongfully and unlawfully delivered to and converted by John G. Webb. It declares it is ready and willing to give title to the wire to John G. Webb, in the event of a decree, to allow the $8,000 payment to stand as a credit.

The John A. Roeblings Sons' company also filed a reply to the answer and cross-petition of Receiver George Whysall and Fred E. Gaery. In this pleading, in the same case, practically the same facts are set up as in the reply to the Troy Trust company.

SEVENTIETH ANNUAL CONVENTION OPENED

Mt. Vernon Baptist Association at Prospect.

MEETINGS WERE HELD AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Much Important Business Was Given Attention—A Fine Program Is Arranged for the Sessions—Addresses Along Lines of Interest to the Members.

The seventieth annual convention of the Mt. Vernon Baptist association was held at the Baptist church at Prospect Tuesday and Wednesday, closing with the Wednesday evening session, were opened at 1:15 o'clock with a fair attendance. Later in the afternoon, a large number of delegates and interested church workers arrived and the convention was a very important one.

Rev. J. H. Bagwill, of Morral, conducted the devotions with which the meeting was opened. Following a song service, Rev. E. M. Pressley, of Fredericktown, preached the introductory sermon and was heard with interest. He selected his text from Matthew 9:36, "But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd."

Teaching of Christ.

The minister told first how Christ teaches us to see men, and then of our attitude after we have seen them. In closing he stated what we should do with our observation.

At the session held Tuesday evening, Dr. W. A. King, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, and Rev. J. P. Currin were speakers. Dr. King had for his theme, "Has the B. Y. P. A. Served Its Day?" Rev. Mr. Currin took for his theme, "How Shall We Best Develop the Spiritual Life of Our Young People?" All of the talks of the evening were along the line of the work of the young people of the church.

A large number of delegates registered at the home of the pastor of the church at Prospect, Rev. A. R. Woodward.

Tuesday Afternoon.

As the afternoon services proceeded, Tuesday, at the annual meeting of the Mt. Vernon Baptist association, at Prospect, the Baptist church gradually filled until there was a fairly-good audience in attendance.

Following the introductory sermon by Rev. D. M. Pressley, of Fredericktown, the Sunday-school work of the past year was reported by the committee which had been appointed for that purpose. Following this, the prospects and propositions for the work were given by W. A. Holmes, of Granville.

Rev. H. H. Hurley, of Mt. Vernon, then gave a twenty-minute talk on "The Sunday-school as an agent for Good Citizenship." Rev. Mr. Hurley grew very enthusiastic over his subject, declaring that the future of the United States depended on the Sunday-schools of the country. General remarks by Rev. Mr. Hurley and Mr. Holmes on the Sunday-school as an agent for good in church membership, followed. Rev. J. W. Craig of Mt. Gilead next gave a talk on training children in mission work. He said that mission work was essential to the life of the Sunday-school.

A general discussion of the advisability of having a separate assembly every year for the Bible-school and the ladies' societies followed. As the result of the discussion, a committee was appointed by Moderator Mayor C. L. Huff, to look into the matter and report, Thursday morning.

Moderator Huff said, that as all the delegates had not yet arrived, he would appoint the committees at the evening session. The singing of a song closed a highly interesting meeting.

Big Supper Served.

A big supper was served by members of the Prospect church to the delegates from out of town, in the basement of the Metholist church. Many delegates arrived early in the evening to attend the evening session.

At 7 o'clock nearly every seat in the church was taken. Rev. J. W. Craig opened the evening session with devotional services. Miss Irene Fox of Prospect, then gave a report on the present status of the B. Y. P. U., reading reports from the Prospect and Mt. Vernon churches. According to the reports, both associations are prospering.

Dr. Walter A. King, of Marion, gave a talk, his subject being "Has the B. Y. P. U. Served Its Day?" Dr. King said that the answer to this question depended on the locality of the society, and that any society that detracts from the public worship of the church is bound to fail.

A general discussion on this question was opened by Rev. H. C. Smith, of the Bryn Zion church, and it seemed that the general impression of the delegates was that the society had served its day in most places.

A Pleasing Address.

Rev. J. P. Currin, of Marion, then gave a thirty-minute talk on the subject "How Shall we Best Develop the Spiritual Life of Our Young People?" The speaker said that constancy of aim, singleness of purpose and steadiness of advance were essential to spiritual life.

"What we need today, is a spirit of reverence, especially for the Bible," The speaker said, "We must have a big ear, and a big step in the right direction. You must master yourself by the spirit of struggle." Rev. Mr. Currin was heard with interest.

The following committees were appointed by Moderator Huff during the evening.

Enrollment—Miss Irene Fox, of Prospect; John Crawley, of the Bryn Zion church, and J. M. Howard, of Fredericktown.

Resolutions—Rev. L. Dickerson, of Radnor; Rev. J. W. Craig, of Mt. Gilead, and Rev. D. M. Pressley, of Fredericktown.

Obituary—Rev. H. H. Hurley, of Mt. Gilead; Rev. H. C. Smith, of Franklin, and B. F. Lloyd, of Chester.

Miss Edith Currin sang several selections during the evening, and a number of songs were sung by the audience. Much interest was shown in the convention, and it showed evidence of being one of the best in the history of the association. Many Marion people were present in the evening.

CHURCHES VOTED INTO ASSOCIATION WEDNESDAY

Action Taken by Association During Morning Session.

The Marion Trinity Baptist church was voted into membership in the Mt. Vernon First Baptist association, Wednesday. Six other churches aside from the Marion church voted in were Morral, Wyandot, Grand Prairie, LaRue, Green Camp and Big Island. The action on the part of the association brings into membership what was formerly known as the Marion County Quarterly meeting of Free Baptists.

A great deal of interest was shown in the session Wednesday. The attendance was very large, and the delegates, ministers and interested church workers paid close attention to the transaction of the church business, and the various discussions of the morning.

The session was opened at 8:30 o'clock with the devotional services by Rev. H. C. Smith, of Fredericktown. A report of the committee on the Marion Trinity Baptist church was submitted by Rev. J. W. Craig, of Mt. Gilead. A report of the committee on credentials was also received, and the reading of the church letters was the next feature on the program. In the reports it was shown that the Marion Trinity Baptist church has a total membership of 527, and that seventy-one members were gained during the year and twenty-one lost. Rev. L. Dickerson, of Radnor, extended the right hand of fellowship to the Marion church, together with the other churches, and there was a general welcoming of the new churches into the association.

Feature of Morning.

A feature of the morning sermon was an address by Dr. C. J. Rose, of Granville, who spoke on "Missionary Work." During the course of his address, he paid a fine tribute to the Marion Trinity church for its assistance.

The ministers of the churches taken into membership who were present are Rev. J. H. Bagwill, of Morral; Rev. H. H. Hoyt, of Green Camp; Rev. H. H. Hurley, of Mt. Vernon, and Dr. Walter A. King, of Marion.

Following the report of the Ohio Baptist convention by C. H. Wright, the election of officers was taken up and Mayor H. L. Huff was chosen moderator. The following other officers were choosen.

J. W. Howard, of Fredericktown, associate moderator; E. F. Hartpence, of Mt. Gilead, clerk and treasurer; Rev. J. W. Craig, of Mt. Gilead, secretary of Sunday-school work; W. L. Williams, of Radnor, assistant secretary; Mrs. J. W. Craig, of Mt. Gilead, secretary of woman's work; Mrs. Walter A. King, of Marion, assistant secretary of woman's work; Rev. H. H. Hurley, of Mt. Vernon, secretary of B. Y. P. U; Miss Irene Fox, of Prospect, assistant secretary of B. Y. P. U. work; H. S. Campbell, of Mt. Vernon, trustee for five years.

Following a report of the auditing committee and of the treasurer, the doctrinal sermon was preached by Dr. Walter A. King, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church at Marion. He had for his subject, "The Witness of the Water," and he selected his text from I John, 5:8. He told of the baptism of the spirit, of the water and of the blood.

The afternoon session was given over to the woman's Missionary work. That evening a stereopticon lecture on the missionary work in India was given.

Wednesday Afternoon.

The afternoon session of the Mt Vernon Baptist association was opened, Wednesday, at the Baptist church at Prospect, by devotional services in charge of Rev. L. Dickerson, of Radnor. The church was well filled and much interest was shown in the program. Following a report of the Woman's Home Missionary society by Mrs. W. S. Craven, from the Bryn Zion church, a very interesting address by Miss Nell Morgan, who is in missionary work among the Jews in Brooklyn, was heard. Miss Morgan told of many interesting experiences.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society, by Mrs. Earl Brewer was then heard. Mrs. H. H. Trilbe, of Rangoon, Burmah, spoke on foreign mission work, and was heard with interest. She told of some of the customs and prejudices of the people in Burmah, and how hard they were to convert, but she said that at the present time there are 66,000 converts in that country.

Missionary Sermon.

The missionary sermon was then given by Rev. H. H. Hurley, of Mt. Vernon. The speaker was heard with interest, taking for his text Mark 16:15. "And he said unto them, go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." The speaker said that there is great need of Christianity in the world, today, and that what Christians did in the past, present-day Christians could do. 'Love is the only religion of God," he said.

The report of the committee on weak churches was then read by Rev. J. W. Craig, of Mt. Gilead. The report recommended a number of ways by which these churches could be strengthened.

Mrs. Walter A. King, of Marion and Mrs. H. S. Campbell, of Mt. Vernon, were appointed on the woman's advisory board. The meeting was then adjourned.

The Evening Session.

Following a big supper in the basement of the Methodist church the delegates and their friends assembled in the Baptist church for the evening session. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. H. Clear. A lecture on India, illustrated by stereopticon views, had been announced for the evening, but Rev. S. Bawden, the lecturer, was not able to bring his lantern, and so gave the lecture by the aid of two large maps, and a number of posters which were arranged on the walls. The speaker is from India, having just returned on a vacation. He was in missionary work there and he related many interesting experiences. The speaker told of the need of Hindoos for Christ, and of the many narrow customs and beliefs that hinder the work of the missionary. He also told of the bad economic conditions which prevail in that country, and of the great famines which occur. The speaker was heard with interest throughout, although the storm made it very difficult to hear. In the opening of the lecture, the electric lights went out, and the people sat in darkness, while a couple of kerosene lamps were placed on the pulpit. The church was crowded, every seat being taken. Miss Marguerite Wottring, of Prospect, rendered a pleasing solo, and a number of songs were sung by the audience.

Many people attending the convention have commented on the decorations of the platform, which is nicely decorated with flowers and plants. The pulpit is covered by a large American flag.

End of the Meetings.

The last session of the seventieth annual convention of the Mt. Vernon Baptist association was held Thursday morning, in the Baptist church at Prospect where all of the sessions have been held. The morning's meeting closed one of the most successful conventions which the association has held. The church was not filled, as it has been, because many of the delegates had gone home, but there was a fair-sized crowd present. The meeting was in charge of the associate moderator, J. M. Williams.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises under the direction of Dr. Walter A. King, of Marion. Miscellaneous business was then given attention. A motion was made to thank the Prospect people for their generosity and hospitality. A motion to give letters to any of the churches in the association, who wished them, was carried.

Dr. King, Rev. H. H. Hurley, of Mt. Vernon, and Dr. C. H. Wright, of Fredericktown, were appointed delegates to the Ohio Baptist convention in Columbus. Dr. King and Rev. J. W. Craig, of Mt. Gilead, were appointed delegates to the Ohio Northern convention.

The Next Meeting.

A committee was then appointed to decide on the next anniversary meeting. It was composed of Rev. L. Dickerson, Rev. J. W. Craig, and H. S. Campbell. It decided that the next convention should be held the Tuesday and Wednesday before the first Sunday in September, next year, beginning at 10 o'clock, on Tuesday. The place of meeting was left to the committee on arrangements. It was decided to have the pastor of the Prospect church preach the introductory sermon, the pastor of the Radnor church the missionary sermon, and the pastor of the Green Camp church the dostrinal sermon.

The list of delegates from the different churches was then read and corrected by the clerk. Remarks on the people who had passed away during the year were then given. Dr. King paid tribute to Walter Bachelder, and the departed members of other churches were mentioned. The convention then adjourned until next year, after some closing moments of worship.

The seventieth annual convention of the Mt. Vernon association was a success, and is especially a memorable one on account of the union of the former Free Baptists churches with the association of First Baptists. The Trinity church of Marion was in this number, and it is the general impression that the churches will bring new strength to the organization.

adopted a practice which exactly fitted it, for they have called in to consultation on every vital matter, only those who had the biggest material stake in the economical development of the country.

"These men financed party campaigns and were always on the inside when party policy was to be determined. Tariff schedules, the foreign policy, the chief expenditures of the government, everything went as they suggested while the rank and file of us fared as we might and were happy if we had any small share in the prosperity, which they organized for themselves.

"They were the trustees, we their wards, and took part in the common life as they planned and directed. What went on at the trustee meetings, we were very seldom allowed to learn, and learned only by congressional investigations and trials in court, where the trustees complained sadly it would interfere with the regular course of business.

"We have not yet reached the end of the inquiry, but we have found out enough now to make it certain that we shall change the whole method and spirit of conducting our government.

Farmers Are Deceived.

"Probably nobody has been deceived by the trustees, under this method of management, which is to end on the fourth of March next, more than the farmer. It is hard to see where his partnership was recognized at all. The tariff on products of the soil was not needed by the farmer, and did him no good, and in the meantime the things which he needed every day to produce his crops, had very heavy duties upon them, and their prices were made stiffer and stiffer.

"This great iniquity involves a great sham on us, and an enormous disadvantage to the nation, for the farmer surely is one of the fundamental, original partners of every government. It is a significant thing that the petition, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' comes first among the petitions of the Lord's prayer. All spiritual requests come after it.

"We can not conceive our best interests until our stomachs are filled, and it would be natural to suppose that, in every well organized government, the farmer would at least have equal concern with everybody else in political policy. But the trustees of our government have not looked upon it so. The present Democratic congress had the old-fashioned idea of government. They supposed its benefits and protections were intended for all of our citizenship, but most of their efforts were frustrated by the trustees of our government.

Starts on Tour.

New York, Aug. 29.—Determined to 'carry the fight into the enemy's country," Colonel Theodore Roosevelt left here early today for Bennington, Vermont. The departure of the colonel inaugurates a speaking tour which will last until the middle of October. Colonel Roosevelt was scheduled to speak in Bennington, Middlebury and Rutland today, while tomorrow he will deliver campaign addresses in St. Albans, Morrisville, Barton and St. Johnsbury. Saturday he will talk to crowds at Barre, Randolph, Bellows Falls and Brattleboro.

The colonel will then spend Sunday at Sagamore Hill when he will make public his letter to Senator Clapp, chairman of the senate sub-committee, which is investigating expenditures in the 1904 and 1908 campaigns. In his letter, Roosevelt will answer the testimony of Senator Penrose and John D. Archbold, denying that he knew of immense contributions which the Standard Oil company was making to his cause. The colonel said he would tell in his letter the same story he would have told had he gone on the witness stand.

Roosevelt, in going into Vermont, is invading a hostile state. The third-term candidate will bring into action his heaviest guns in an endeavor to swing it into the Progressive column.

In an interview, given at the time of his departure, the colonel said he was entirely satisfied with the outlook for the Progressives, not only in the New England states but throughout the country. He will make particular appeal to farmers and wage earners, he said, because 'big business interests" are shunning him and fighting against his candidacy.

MORROW COUNTY'S BILL FOR KEEPING PRISONERS

The Total Cost of Maintenance Is but $73.45.

Morrow county had but little expense the past year in boarding prisoners at the county jail, says the Ashley Star. But fifteen prisoners were handled there during the twelve months. Three of these were women. Of the twelve men locked up, eight were married. Seven of those imprisoned were insane persons and two were under sixteen years of age. At sixty-five cents a day, the entire board bill amounted to only $73.45. Only seven of the prisoners were committed on criminal charges. These seven served a total of 101 days, and cost the county $65.65.

After a man has reformed it keeps him busy trying to live down his past.

HORACE W. RILEY IS A VICTIM OF CANCER

Well-Known Farmer Dies at Country Home.

Horace W. Riley, a well-known Big Island township farmer, died of cancer, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, following an extended illness.

Mr. Riley was born in Marion township, December 27, 1846, and was a son of John P. and Sarah Malone Riley. He had always lived in this county, with the exception of eight years passed in Hardin county. He devoted himself to agricultural pursuits after completing his education, and his well-cultivated and improved farm shows the effects of his intelligent and careful management. He was one of the best horsemen in the county and owned a number of very valuable animals.

VOTERS MUST REGISTER FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Indications Are Heavy Vote Will Be Cast.

The board of election headquarters in the Marion National bank building will open for the last time before Tuesday's constitutional amendment election, Friday and Saturday. The hours for each day for the registration of voters are from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. and from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Much interest has been aroused in the election and indications point to a heavy vote. "Every little marking of the forty-two proposals will have a meaning all its own," said an election official in speaking of the election. "And it's a cinch there won't be any straight tickets."

BARONESS DIES IN A COLUMBUS HOSPITAL

Death Comes as the Result of Protracted Illness.

DECEASED HAS MANY FRIENDS IN MARION

Baroness Viola Lytle Von Uchtritz Has an Interesting Career—Demise Is Sequel to an Automobile Accident She Suffers in Europe Recently.

Baroness Viola Lytle von Uchtritz, aged thirty-eight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lytle of South Sandusky street, died at the Rodebaugh sanitarium in Columbus Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, heart failure being the cause of the demise, says the Delaware Journal-Herald.

Saturday morning, when a serious illness developed, Dr. A. J. Pounds was called to the Lytle home and Mr. Lytle thought it best to have his daughter removed to Columbus for treatment. She made the trip by automobile and placed in the sinatarium, which is located on Winter avenue, between Broad and Long streets, far from the center of the city.

Acute nephritis developed after her removal, she having previously suffered from spinal trouble resulting from an automobile accident in which she figured while living in Europe a few years ago.

Monday morning, Mr. Lytle received word that the baroness was getting along very nicely and that there was no cause for serious alarm. On the following day, however, the news came that she was much worse and before the relatives could reach her bedside she expired. The attending nurse at the sanitarium stated that she passed away rather suddenly, taking a deep, long breath and seeming to succumb to a momentary attack of heart failure.

The body was brought back to Delaware, Wednesday, and now rests at the home of deceased's parents on south Sandusky street. Funeral services were held, Friday.

The baroness was the eldest daughter of James Robert and Cornelia Lytle. She was a native of Delaware. Her early education was received under the direction of a private tutor and later in Ohio Wesleyan university, from which she graduated with high honors in 1894. She was a musician of much ability on the piano, harp, violin and other instruments.

After completing a special course in literature under Professor John H von Cleve, she, accompanied by her chaperone, went to Berlin, Germany, to complete her musical education and to get a more perfect knowledge of the German and French languages. Her brilliancy and originality, together with a very charming personality, soon made her a great favorite in society.

During the first winter in Berlin she made the acquaintance of Baron Edgar von Uchtritz, who was attracted by her beauty and personal accomplishments. Congenial in their tastes, friendship soon ripened into a deeper attachment and in 1895 they were married.

Several months were spent by them in traveling in America, visiting many points of scenic beauty and historic interest, and both being fond of travel they later visited the various countries in Europe and foreign lands. A mutual interest in hunting and in natural history and geology led them into northern Norway, Sweden and Lapland. Both being musically talented, they were quite congenial. Also they were devotees of outdoor sports, the baroness being known as a fine horsewoman. She recived some training from her husband, in this department, as his training with the Hussars made him an experienced rider.

Besides English, her native tongue, the baroness was conversant with the French, German and Italian languages and attained success as a writer of stories, many of which have appeared in both German and American magazines.

Surviving are the parents, Hon. and Mrs James R. Lytle; the husband, Baron Edgar von Uchtritz, and one sister, Baroness Nellie Lytle von Eulenberg.

The baroness had quite a wide circle of friendships in Marion and was a frequent visitor in this city.

E. J. MYERS ATTORNEY IN BANKRUPTCY CASE

An Error Made in Review of Court Proceeding.

Tuesday, in reviewing the story of a bankruptcy case, in which Ben Meck, of Bucyrus, was involved, the Star inadvertently erred in stating that E. J. Myers, of Bucyrus, was the bankrupt. Instead Mr. Myers was the attorney for the bankrupt. In a letter to the Star, Mr. Myers says:

"I wish at this time to say I never was a bankrupt. Furthermore, trust that I never may be. I was, however, counsel for one Jacob Kerksowitz, in the Morris Alexander bankruptcy case before Judge Day at Cleveland, Ohio.

"I wish you would, through the columns of your paper, correct the error, as it might injure my credit to a certain extent, and besides I have friends at and near Marion, especially members of the Marion county bar. Other than the error I point out, I have no interest, either directly nor indirectly, in whatever article may have appeared in your paper. I did not see it, but am acting upon the matter from hearsay."

MARION POSTOFFICE ORDER IS CHANGED

Holders of Lock Boxes Are To Have Access to Them.

The lid on the Marion postoffice will not be so tight as first ordered. Postmaster M. B. Dickerson has received a supplementary order directing that holders of lock boxes shall have access to them as usual, but no mail deliveries will be made by the carriers either on the streets or at the postoffice windows. Mail for hotel guests and newspapers will be delivered through the lock boxes. This will be made possible through a simple arrangement of having that mail sorted on the railway mail cars before it reaches its destination.

Such mail, according to the supplementary ruling, will be regarded as transit matter, and will be distributed immediately upon its arrival in the offices of destination. This distribution will require a minimum of Sunday work, and the distribution of other mail, received on Sunday, will be made after midnight of Sunday, so that it may be delivered by the carriers on their first rounds Monday morning.

JUDGE SPENCER GIVES WOMAN HIS OPINION

Mother Must See That Her Son Behaves Himself.

Wednesday afternoon, an East Marion mother, whose fourteen-year-old son is under a suspended sentence to the Lancaster reformatory, called upon Juvenile Judge William S. Spencer to protest against Chief Probation Officer Samuel N. Titus talking about her to the neighbors. Major Titus went among the neighbors to make inquiry about the boy's mother and the boy.

The woman intimated that she might bring suit, and became very indignant.

"Well, Major Titus says you are a regular spitfire, and I must accept the report of his investigations," calmy said the judge. "Your boy is a bad boy and I shall be compelled to enforce the reformatory sentence if this thing occurs again."

It appears that the boy in question beat up a little neighbor boy, much younger, who had been ill. The fight preciptated a quarrel between the mothers and Major Titus was sent out to investigate.
